ANOTHER INSPECTION OF BAKER GUN TO FIX CAMPBELL'S STATUS

Chicago Expert to Decide if His Pistol Fired Death Shots.

VERDICT WILL CHECK THAT OF MAN HERE

Suspect's Wife, Grilled, Supports His Alibi for Fatal Night.

FOUND MATE HOME AT 6 P. M., SHE SAYS

Then Realty Man Took Son to Scout Meeting, Story Told Officers.

The circumstantial case against Herbert M. Campbell, charged with the murder of Mary E. Baker, either will strengthen or collapse upon the examination of the pistol by Maj. Calvin Goddard, internationally known ballistics expert. It has already been identified by Dr. Wilmer Souder, of the Bureau of Standards, as the death gun.

Maj. Goddard's decision, authorities say, will determine whether Campbell will be enabled to escape the net in which he is ensnared or whether authorities will have to attack his alibi with more intensity. Mrs. Ruth Callahan Campbell, wife of the suspect, has substantiated Campbell's alibi for the fatal night and it dovetails with the story of a woman in whose company Campbell spent the afternoon of the murder.

The gun will be taken to Maj. Goddard, in Chicago, by one of Inspector William S. Shelby's men. Maj. Goddard will submit the gun to tests already given by Dr. Souder, upon which he bases his statement that the pistol fired the shots which killed Mary E. Baker.

Bullets to Be Fired Into Water.

Cartridges, of the same make of those which were found in the slain girl's body, will be used by Maj. Goddard. The expert will fire the bullets into a pail of water, filled with rags, cotton or other nonabrasive material. The slugs will then be subjected to microscopic examination, which discloses all the impressions taken by the lead in its propulsion through the barrel of the gun.

These slugs will then be compared with those taken from the girl's body. Only two of the three bullets were recovered at the autopsy. The third was in the body but could not be found by probing. Of the two recovered, only one can be used for comparison with those used in the test.

This is the one which entered the left side of her body and was recovered under the skin on the right side. The other bullet is not a good specimen, since it entered the left side of her neck and deflected off a bone in her right arm, which was apparently raised above her head. The deflection caused abrasions on the slug which obliterated some of the barrel traces.

Campbell Furnished Shots Before.

In the tests made by Dr. Souder, ammunition found in Campbell's home was used as experimental bullets, said Lieut. Edward J. Kelly and Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth. Dr. Souder is certain that the Campbell gun is the weapon used in the murder. Lieut. Kelly and Mr. Gloth have implicit confidence in Dr. Souder's judgment, but Maj. Goddard was called into the case to give Campbell all possible chances of vindication.

When Campbell turned the gun over to the police he told Sheriff Howard R. Fields that he knew the gun had been used because he always kept the firing chamber unloaded, leaving the other five loaded. When he "found" the gun, he said, it was fully loaded. This story he retracted yesterday and said that he always kept the gun filled with shells. It was Campbell who furnished Lieut. Kelly and Mr. Gloth with the ammunition from his home for test purposes. Campbell has admitted that the gun was never out of his possession.

After the interrogation of Mrs. Campbell yesterday, Lieut. Kelly and Mr. Gloth said: "The gun is now the biggest proposition in this case and Campbell's possession of it has to be explained."

Bullets Are Identical.

Discussing the interview with Mrs. Campbell, Lieut. Kelly said: "Alibis have failed before. The bullets taken from Mary Baker's body are identical in make to those Campbell submitted to us. Dr. Souder says Campbell's gun fired them."

Another peculiar circumstance that is occupying the attention of Lieut. Kelly and Mr. Gloth is the discovery of dog hairs and grease spots on the gloves found with the murdered girl's clothing. Before Campbell identified

Says: Some say we can not go on maintaining a higher standard of living for our people than that enjoyed in other nations. We have done so for generations. That is the fact. The theory that it can not continue may be no better than the theory that it will last indefinitely. Some nation always has taken the lead.

But supposing we shall finally reach the same position as others. That is no reason why we should now relinquish our supremacy and descend to their level. It is our business to make our conditions the best as long as we can. We would not be justified in tamely surrendering our treasure now because at some time it may be exhausted.

To become equal to others we must go down or they must go up. For us to go down would not in itself raise others.

Our example of a free and prosperous people has been the sovereign remedy for world oppression. The truth is our trade regulations are more fair to others than theirs are to us. And what is of chief importance is the great service we render by giving credits and furnishing markets. The higher our standards, the greater our progress, the more we do for the world.

SLAIN RADIO FIGURE LINKED WITH RACKET

Member of Detroit Gang Swears Announcer Extorted $4,000 From Him.

STATE POLICE JOIN QUIZ

Detroit, July 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—All State police in this vicinity have been ordered by Gov. Fred W. Green to investigate the killing early this morning of Jerry Buckley, militant radio commentator of Station WMBC, shot eleven times by a trio of gangsters as he sat in the lobby of the La Salle Hotel, less than two hours after giving his final announcement of returns in the special election. Buckley had been counted one of the principal elements in the opposition to Mayor Bowles in the referendum that resulted in his recall.

Police were also working today upon the information announced by Police Commissioner Thomas C. Wilcox that the murdered man had extorted $4,000 from a racketeer whose name Wilcox withheld. The racketeer's affidavit, said the commissioner, stated that Buckley forced the man into bootlegging and took money from him after he became implicated with a prosperous liquor-selling organization.

The death of Buckley was the eleventh gangster killing here in the past nineteen days. The killing took place in the lobby of the hotel at 2 o'clock this morning. Buckley made his home in the hotel, where the broadcasting studio was also located. As he sat reading a newspaper three gangsters entered the lobby, came up behind Buckley and, without a word, emptied their guns, five bullets lodging in the victim's head and six in his body. He died instantly.

Buckley was one of the outstanding figures in the campaign for the recall of Mayor Bowles, opposing Bowles. During the campaign he made some of the most scathing speeches against the incumbent in his daily radio comment on civic affairs.

He had also been a crusader against Detroit gambling houses and it was this bitter opposition that police believe led to his death. William Cannon and George Collins, first victims

ENEMIES OF HUSTON SPEED TO NEW YORK

Must Quit or Hoover Will Release Letter, Is Hint as They Leave.

ALL VISIT WHITE HOUSE

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

There were some indications yesterday that the next convention of anti-Claudius Huston men will be held in New York. They lay in the fact that the vanguard, arriving yesterday and the day before, spent only a short while at the White House and then went on to the metropolis.

On Tuesday, former Gov. Goodrich, of Indiana, came to town and after a conference with President Hoover left for New York. Yesterday there arrived Messrs. J. R. Nutt, Republican national treasurer, and from all reports a most stubborn one, and James Francis Burke, Republican general counsel.

In company with Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Hope they went to see Mr. Hoover and subsequently went away, as if looking for something. Messrs. Nutt and Burke came back some time later, and when they left this time they left for New York.

It is in New York that Mr. Huston is supposed to be.

Mr. Goodrich had clouded his visit with the explanation that he and Mr. Hoover had talked over general conditions. There is no doubt at all that the visit of Messrs. Nutt, Burke and Hope in the first instance, and Messrs Nutt and Burke in the second, had to do solely with Mr. Huston. They are the leading spirits together with Postmaster General Walter Brown in the move against the Republican chairman.

Mr. Brown was also at the White House later in the day, but inquiries of him concerning Mr. Huston brought the gulleless observation: "He is certainly not at the Postoffice Department," the plain inference being that the Postoffice Department is Mr. Brown's sole interest in life, a commendable thing if so.

Mr. Brown was also down at the

BROWNS TIE SCORE WITH 6-RUN RALLY

STILL TRAIL MACKS BY 4-GAME MARGIN

Infielder's Fourth Safety of Day Figures in Winning Rally.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

Sportsman's Park, St. Louis, July 23.—That a game is never over until the final out has been turned in was never more clearly demonstrated than by the Browns here this afternoon. With the Nationals apparently just breezing home in the final game of the series here, Killefer's team suddenly rallied in the eighth to score six runs and become one up, and it was only the fighting qualities of the Nats that enabled them to win out finally by a 10-to-9 score in the eleventh inning.

Joe Cronin was the hero of the day, the "San Francisco Keed" being credited with two home runs, one breaking a deadlock in the third and the other tying the score in the ninth, following the Brown's big threat. Again in the eleventh he did his bit, cracking out his fourth hit of the day to propel Joe Judge, who had singled to third, with what proved to be the deciding marker. Myer doubled Judge home before George Blaeholder, second relief pitcher used by Killefer, could get his bearings. Thus the Nats maintained their position, four games behind the Mackmen, who beat the Tigers.

Hadley Halts Browns.

Cronin does not deserve all of the credit, however, for Irving Hadley came on the Washington hill in the eighth after both Fred Marberry and Al Crowder had failed and granted but two hits, one a scratch, while stopping the St. Louis onslaught and then pitching hitless ball over the balance of the route. Marberry was working easily under a five-run lead when the Browns suddenly hopped on his slants and he has no excuses.

Sam Gray started for the natives, but flivvered in the third, and Chad Kimsey relieved him and settled down after one bad frame until the eleventh, when he granted two hits and was yanked in favor of Blaeholder.

Browns Score at Start.

Marberry and Gray each granted two runs in the first two innings but the former suddenly steadied while

Rome, July 23 (A.P.).—Official reports from provincial agents late tonight fixed the number of dead in today's earthquake at 679. The mayor of Villa Nova and his entire family were wiped out among approximately 350 others killed there.

The reports included Accadia, 70, and Anzano, 30, among other newly reported towns. The injured counted were 1,500. Thousands are homeless.

According to compilation of returns at 10:30 p. m., the death list at Melfi, center of the devastation, stands at 181 with a tremendous injured list and virtual destruction of the city.

Southern Italy was rocked by a steady procession of minor quakes throughout the day following upon the tremendous shocks an hour after midnight.

Relief Work Begins.

Relief measure were in progress tonight. Everywhere throughout the region southeast of Naples to a point on the extreme south to Taranto, from the Tyrrhenian to the Adriatic seas, the quake was felt to some extent. Serious damage, however, was confined to the provinces around Potenza and Naples.

The quake centered at Melfi, where 181 persons lost their lives. In this region a part of the Cathedral of Salerno, which dates from 1080, collapsed.

Special supply trains moved over the railways from the north in a steady procession today carrying food, clothing and other supplies to the sufferers.

Panic Seizes Naples.

The tremors shook buildings and the casualties resulted from the collapse of walls, church steeples and the like. In all the cities the frightened residents ran into the streets panic stricken, and some injuries resulted from the commotion.

The shocks were felt as far away as Anonca on the Adriatic coast, and at Chieti, Teramo and Aquila in the Abruzzi region.

The panic in Naples was increased when electricity was cut off, the frantic inhabitants rushing about in the darkness, shouting and crying.

Firemen, police and Fascist militiamen quickly mobilized to restore order and collect the casualties. The panic reached its height in the jail, where terrorized prisoners pleaded to be freed for fear the roof would crumble. Carabinieri quickly quieted them.

Duchess Aids Injured.

The Duchess of Acosta, wife of the cousin of King Victor Emmanuel, left her palace at Capodimonte immediately after the tremors and went among the injured in a Red Cross uniform, doing much to alleviate the alarm.

A relief expedition left Potenza at 4 o'clock this morning. Technical and sanitary experts, soldiers and workmen armed with tools to clear away the debris were on board a special train.

A 9-year-old boy and a baby were among the victims in Naples. The boy was killed when a wing of a building at Casanova Bridge fell, and

The Marge, owned by Howard Jackman, of Salem, was held here, pending orders from Boston on a charge of rumrunning, and the men were released.

Widely differing versions of the affair were given. Stone, one of the wounded men, declared the patrol boat had flashed its searchlight on the yacht and opened fire with the machine gun without further warning. He said he was a passenger on the Marge, which had just passed through Cape Cod Canal bound from Gloucester to New Bedford for repairs.

DRY FORCE RELIEVES STRONG-ARM AGENT

"Hard-Boiled" Golding, Head of Albany Bureau, Under U. S. Investigation.

ADMITTED BY WOODCOCK

New York, July 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Capt. George E. ("Hard-Boiled") Golding, ace of undercover men in the prohibition service, who earned his soubriquet because he employed rough house tactics and strong arm methods in enforcing the dry law, has been relieved of his duties as special agent in charge of the Albany, N. Y., office, the New York World News Service learned today.

Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock, reached at his home in Salisbury, Md., refused to divulge the reason for Golding's sudden disappearance from Albany, but admitted that "the man is under investigation, and has been for about two weeks."

Mr. Golding, it was understood in Albany, had been relieved of his duties by Agent Kohler, after charges had been filed with Washington by a young woman. It was positively ascertained in Washington that Golding's suspension from duty did not

GIRL'S STORY HOLDS MAN ON $7,500 BOND

Virginia Inn Proprietor to Go Before the Grand Jury; Child Released.

WIFE PUTS UP SECURITY

David Crockett, 35-year-old inn proprietor, arrested for an alleged statutory offense against a 14-year-old waitress, was held in $7,500 bond yesterday for action of the grand jury after Gladys Louise Sissons, the girl, revealed details of her three-day adventure after she stepped into his automobile after church early this month.

Spectators were barred from the courtroom by Judge A. C. Ritchie, of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court of Fairfax County, Va., as the child told her story, admitting relations with the man and revealing all of the details without hesitation. After being excused from the stand she was released in the custody of her parents.

Bond was provided for Crockett by his wife, in whose name the Groveton Inn, where Gladys Louise worked as a waitress, is recorded. Crockett did not take the witness stand, but a notice of appeal was taken by his attorney, Judge Robinson Moncure, of Alexandria.

The girl told the court that after leaving the Beulah Baptist Church in Crockett's automobile on Sunday she had remained with him at the home of a Mrs. Frinks until the subsequent Tuesday evening, when, being told that the police had discovered her whereabouts, she went for a drive with Crockett and later "stood on a hill and watched the sheriff search the house."

Mrs. Etta Padgett, sister of Mrs. Frinks and also formerly a waitress at the inn, was fined $50 and costs on a charge of contributing to the de-

Diplomat Quits India Tuberculosis Society

British Ambassador, After Talk With Secretary to Hoover, Follows Lead of Several Prominent Americans as Dissension Arises.

Following a telephonic message from one of President Hoover's secretaries, Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador, was reported to have withdrawn official British support from the India Foreign Tuberculosis Committee yesterday.

This move was made after nine prominent Americans, including two United States senators, the Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, and Dr. Kendall Emerson, head of the Tuberculosis Association of America, had resigned from the committee which was organized here some time ago to raise funds for the Tuberculosis Association of Bengal.

Rumors of dissension over matters of policy had been rife within the committee for some time, but had not been made public until Tuesday when Mrs. Ernest R. Grant, chairman of the committee, announced that she and other leaders of the movement were withdrawing their support.

Those who resigned at the same time included Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas; Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York; Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, Surgeon General; Dr. Emerson, Dr. George M. Kober, dean emeritus of Georgetown University Medical School and president of the Washington Tuberculosis Association; Rabbi Abram Simon, of the Washington Hebrew Congregation; Howard Reeside, treasurer of the committee, and the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the House.

Shortly after these resignations were announced, Mrs. George F. Becker, who came here several months ago from India to enlist aid for tubercular victims there, issued a statement to the press proclaiming herself to be the "sole representative" of the Tuberculosis Association of Bengal, for which the funds were to have been raised.

The British Ambassador yesterday would not indicate the phrasing of his resignation from the committee. His secretary, A. R. Dew, however, stated that Sir Ronald was convinced that because of the resignations of its leaders the committee had ceased to exist and that therefore he no longer could be regarded as a member or in any way allied with the movement.

A letter setting forth those opinions was sent by Sir Ronald yesterday to "the president of the committee," Mr. Dew stated. The organization had no president, being headed by Mrs. Grant as chairman. She stated last night that she had not yet received any communication from Sir Ronald.

Delayed resignation of Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, is expected today from California.

Dolores Del Rio Ruined Life As Husband, Lawyer Claims

States, in Divorce Battle, Star Told His Wife He Was "Ugly Old Man."

Los Angeles, July 23 (A.P.).—Dolores Del Rio, Mexican film actress, was charged today with wrecking the marital life of Gunther R. Lessing, prominent attorney, by influencing Mrs. Louis C. Lessing to turn against him.

The charges were made in an amended answer filed by Mr. Lessing in his wife's divorce suit.

The attorney accused the actress of telling Mrs. Lessing he was "an ugly old man," of flattering her that she was "a young and beautiful girl," and of advising Mrs. Lessing to seek "real romance," as she, Dolores, had found it.

the baby died in the crumpling of the fifth floor of a building.

Veterans of frequent earthquakes in this region said they could not remember any shocks more severe than those of this morning.

The center of the seismiv movement appeared to have been between Melfi, Ariano and Apuglia. Cadets on the Argentine training ship Presidente Sarmiento reached here this morning and left the ship to visit scenes of the disaster.

The almost inaccessible nature of some of the areas devastated made difficult the work of succor and the enumeration of casualties. Most of the towns hit the hardest are off the beaten paths of tourists and transportation is poor.

Worst in Two Decades.

Several supply trains have been sent to points on the railroads in the interior from Naples and hundreds of relief workers tonight were penetrating the recesses of the agricultural area offering relief to the still terror-stricken victims.

The quake stunned all Italy. It was the worst earthshock since Messina was all but obliterated in 1908. The first temblor came an hour after midnight. Its own awful nature was supplemented by a tremendous electrical storm over virtually the whole affected area.

The intense area extended from the Tyrrhenian Sea to the Adriatic but the coast settlements suffered less in proportion than the mountain populations. Naples experienced several hours of panic with many houses destroyed and scores of casualties. Among this city's victims was the Countess de Rossi Vargas.

Tunnels Fall In.

Never in all Neapolitan history had this classic city experienced such stark mad fright. A frenzied populace razed through the streets apparently heading nowhere.

Tonight the work of rescue proceeded as rapidly as the means available would permit. Wrecked bridges, snapped communication wires and many other obstacles had been tossed in the path of the relief workers by the upheaval of nature. The highways of the area are notoriously undeveloped and fall lines passed through many gorges into which the quake had tumbled avalanches.

Several tunnels upon the road to Melfi, where 181 persons perished, according to official figures, fell in and blocked service beyond restoration for many days.

The quake tonight visited its first after effect on this city when the authorities closed scores of manufacturing plants whose walls were cracked and in perilous condition. Thousands of workers thus were thrown out of employment.

Four provinces of the sunny, smiling peninsular were converted into "no man's land," in the several larger towns, and the few cities at the center of the quake district brought scenes the horror of which beggared description. Villanova, according to government agents who had managed to bring out a death list of 350, was by far the heaviest sufferer. The town was virtually wiped out. Among the victims were the mayor and his entire family.

Larger Toll Feared.

Rionero, often visited by quakes in other years, suffered at least 20 deaths; San Sossio Baronia reported 14 dead and 100 injured; Rapollo a score dead and 30 hurt, and Varile 11 known dead, with 40 injured. Rionero is known as the "home of the flowers," and is a celebrated city among tourists of the more ardent group who penetrate far into the hills.

Fully 1,000 buildings were destroyed in Melfi and Rionero.

Because almost all of the communities which were hardest hit are distant from the principal centers and communication lines the authorities tonight viewed the possibility that the death list thus far supplied would be materially increased. With torchlights and every other available illumination the ruins of scores of towns were being searched and emergency hospitals were filling up with victims.

(Associated Press.)

Consul General Louis G. Dreyfus, jr., at Naples, advised the State Department yesterday that no Americans were reported killed or injured in a severe earthquake in Naples and surrounding provinces.

Four persons not Americans, he reported, were killed in Naples.

San Francisco, July 23 (A.P.).—Mayor James Rolph, jr., today dispatched a telegram of sympathy to Victor Emmanuel III, King of Italy, and Benito Mussolini, premier, offering aid in the present earthquake catastrophe. The message said:

"San Francisco deeply sympathizes with you and hopes early stories of the disaster were exaggerated. If help is necessary, this city, which suffered in the 1906 disaster, is ready to assist."

Robey hopped on the running board of the car and nabbed Johnny, but his companion fled and was caught after a two-block chase. Husband Is Jailed In Alimony Refusal Mechanic Eays He Will Not Pay Without Gaining Custody of Child.

Refusing to pay alimony unless he is given custody of his child, Ralph O. Preston, auto mechanic, of Nichols avenue, Congress Heights, D. Preston was convicted of assault and battery in Arlington County, Va., Police Court, resulting from an attempt to seize the child, a 2½-year-old girl. He was fined $10 and sentenced to 30 days in jail. He took an appeal.

A rule to show cause why he should not be cited for contempt of court for failure to pay alimony ordered by the Prince Georges County Circuit Court has been issued by Judge Joseph C. Mattingly at Upper Marlboro, returnable next Monday, and a temporary injunction was issued by the judge in awarding custody of the child to the mother.

As Preston left the Arlington court after noting an appeal and posting bond for his appearance in the higher court, he was arrested by Sergt. H. G. Machen, of the Prince Georges County police on the nonsupport warrant.

DEVASTATED LAND SEEN FROM NAPLES

Seaport Residents, on Edge of Quake Disaster, Are in Turmoil of Fear.

THRONGS SLEEP IN OPEN

By WILLIAM GARGIULO.

Naples, July 23 (A.P.).—A darkened band, 20 to 40 miles wide, tonight reached across the boot of Italy, about at the ankle. This city was the northwestern corner of the zone within this belt. An hour after last midnight a terrific undulating earthquake broke forth, dealing death to hundreds of sleeping persons, burying them in the ruins of scores of cities and hamlets and blotting out all the electric power in that territory.

Last night I looked out on a happy countryside embracing this classic city. The fragrance of ripening vineyards was in the air. In the streets the populace strolled carelessly. Tonight I traversed a portion of a countryside churned in 45 seconds into a veritable no man's land by the most disastrous earthquake this light-hearted country has experienced in a generation.

Sleep in Open Spaces.

Instead of proceeding peacefully to their homes, tonight the people of this city slept in cleared spaces in the public squares, panic still gripping them. Their single emotion since the stunning happenings of the last 24 hours seemed to be fear they might be caught like rats in a trap by another earthshock.

The people brought their bedding into the parks. Practically every one believed there would be a repetition of the crushing blow. The squares of the Plebiscito, Del Carmine, Villa Communale and the wide plaza before the railway station were thronged by thousands, who feared almost to go to sleep but were too weary to stay awake.

Ordinarily one may stand in the plaza and gaze at myrids of twinkling hamlets in the distant hills. Tonight no single light gleamed there.

Lighted by lanterns, flares and torches, the citizens of many towns among the hills and miniature cities high up among the Appennines either slept, exhausted from their day's rescue exertions, or delved among the litter that had been their homes, stores and public buildings yesterday.

Victims Sought in Ruins.

Firemen, soldiers and Fascists searched tirelessly for victims. These little mountain towns were the hardest hit by the quake. It was related here tonight that more than 700 of the simple countryfolk had been killed without a chance to try to save themselves and that more than 1,500 were treated for serious injuries during the day, figures which Naples officials said had been compiled with the greatest difficulty, owing to the isolated situation of many villages and the reluctance of local authorities to reveal the truth.

Coastal cities suffered the least. The churches here and in all surrounding towns were open tonight and in them went on the work of relief, while thousands prayed for the victims and besought deliverance from another quake.

Across the Bay of Naples Vesuvius glowed dully tonight, watched with dread by Neapolitans and all who dwell on the boy of the bay.

Vesuvius Eruption Feared.

Belief that the earthquake would almost immediately be followed by a tremendous eruption of the terrible old volcano prevailed throughout the day. When no eruption occurred, very one breathed more freely.

There was widespread ocmment today on what citizens declared to have been a miracle—the fact that practically all of the city's church bells pealed forth at the moment of the first quake as if to warn the inhabitants to flee for their lives. This was explained, naturally, by the fact that undulating earth tremors set the bell towers to oscillating.

Town and church clocks throughout all the province were running again this evening. The quake had stopped them as if automatically at the moment of the shock, 1:10 a. m., thus giving the clearest evidence of the time of appearance of the subterranean upheaval.

Houses Crumbled Like Cards.

This afternoon a trip was made through some of the towns among the mountains. The desolation and tragedy are difficult to describe. Whole suburbs and whole families went down in the ruins. Old houses built of stone with little mortar crumbled like castles of cards.

As the hot south Italian sun beat down on them the rescuers extricated body after body from the ruins.

At Villanova and Melfi there seemed no place left to put the dead. The provincial headquarters was filled with bodies.

Here and there in pathetic groups relatives of the missing persons gathered hoping that by the miracle for which they prayed to their patron saints their loved ones remained alive in the tangled debris of timbers and masonry.

Heat Warps Rails, Derailing Train

Southern Line Blocked for Several Hours, but No One Is Injured.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., July 23.—Traffic was blocked on both north and south bound tracks of the Southern Railroad for several hours today by the derailment of three freight cars and a caboose which left the track near Winston, 4 miles south of here.

Railroad men said that the wreck was caused by the rails buckling from expansion due to the intense heat of the last few days.

When the cars left the track they landed in such position that no trains could pass in either direction, and it was about three hours before the first track was opened to traffic. The second, the southbound track, had not been opened late this evening. In clearing the wreckage away the caboose was rolled down the embankment and as it rolled down it tore down all railroad and Western Union telegraph wires, completely disrupting service for a short time. No one was injured in the wreck.

SERVICES FOR HOW TO BE HELD TODAY

Estate of Millionaire Hobo Is Willed to Workers of World.

STATUE TO HIM PLANNED

Funeral services for James Eads How, millionaire hobo, who died Tuesday in Staunton, Va., of pneumonia superinduced by starvation, will be held at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the All Souls' Unitarian Church. His body will be cremated and the ashes will be taken to St. Louis and placed in a family vault. A brother, Louis How, of Washington, is in charge.

Simultaneous with the announcement of funeral arrangements came an Associated Press report from Cincinnati that How had left most of an estate of between $500,000 and $1,000,000 "for the sole use and benefit of the workers of the world, especially for the education of the disemployed."

Scion of Rich Family.

The distribution of his wealth was in keeping with the practices of his life. Coming from a wealthy St. Louis family, How turned his back on a life of luxury after studying at Harvard and devoted the remainder of his days to the welfare of hoboes and unfortunates. One of his acts was the founding of the Hoboes' College in the Bowery, New York City.

Jeff Davis, recognized king of the hoboes, announced yesterday at Cincinnati, that the International Itinerant Hoboes of America will participate in a 30-day mourning period for How. The organization also will erect a statue of the millionaire hobo at the Eads Bridge at St. Louis, Davis said. The bridge was buildt by How's grandfather, James Buchanan Eads.

How became a hobo officially in 1907, according to Davis, in New Orleans.

Will Made Ten Days Ago.

The will of How was drawn up just 10 days ago, according to his attorney, Nicholas Klein, of Cincinnati. At that time the hobo leader was ill, partly because of self-imposed starvation, and he remained in Cincinnati several days. He intended, Mr. Klein said, to make his way to Washington to lobby against an unemployment bill.

Apparently How never reached his destination, Mr. Klein said, stopping at Staunton when his illness became more serious.

The will directed that How's wife, Ingeborg How, of Los Angeles, be given "whatever she may be entitled to at law." His brother and Holger How, a stepson, each are to receive $5. Trustees named to administer the remainder of the estate are Barney Haughey, of Denver; Herman Gual, of Chicago, and Mr. Klein.

Scout Fleet Plans Fall Maneuvers

Ships Are Due to Assemble in Hampton Roads on September 1.

Norfolk, Va., July 23 (A.P.).—Battleships and cruisers of the Scouting Fleet will assemble in Hampton Roads September 7 for their annual fall maneuvers in this area. The maneuvers, consisting mainly of short range target practice on the Southern drill grounds, 40 miles off the Virginia Capes, will continue until November 20, at which time the vessels will return to their home ports for the Christmas holidays.

The fleet will include the battleships Wyoming, Arkansas, Utah and Florida and the cruisers Detroit, Trenton, Marblehead, Richmond, Salt Lake City, Cincinnati, Milwaukee, Raleigh, Pensacola, Northampton, Chester and Houston.

The Wyoming is flagship of Rear Admiral A. Willard, who succeeded Admiral William C. Cole, as commanding officer of the Scouting Fleet. The Arkansas is flagship of Admiral W. T. Cluverius, former commandant of the Norfolk Navy Yard, and with the Utah and Florida is now on a midshipmen cruise of European waters.

MAN PASSES CRASH AND SEES OWN CAR

Driver of Allegedly Stolen Auto Says He Acted as Drug Detective.

FACES THREE CHARGES

Shortly after a car driven by Paul E. Woodyard, 24 years old, of Bethesda, Md., had crashed into another car in Falls Church, Va., Ira E. Keller, of 1010 Vermont avenue northwest, who happened to pass the scene of the accident, recognized the car which Woodyard was driving as his. Mr. Keller had left the car parked near his office in Washington while he went into Virginia.

Woodyard told Fairfax County officials that he had been acting as undercover man for Lieut. Edward J. Kelly in narcotic cases. A phone call to Washington elicited the information that the car should be thoroughly searched on suspicion that it was carrying narcotics. No drugs were found, however.

Woodyard was charged with driving while under the influence of ardent spirits, which, in Virginia, covers both alcohol and drugs, and leaving after colliding. Patrolman Paul Hermann, of the county police, said that he had to chase Woodyard about half a mile after the accident before he caught the man.

With a companion, Colvin Stonnell, 26 years old, of Seventh street near C street northwest, who was charged with being drunk, Woodyard was given a preliminary hearing and held for action of the grand jury.

Lieut. Kelly handles no narcotic cases for the Washington force, and officials at police headquarters said that they knew of no connection the man could have with the department. Woodyard also exhibited scars of two bullet wounds, which he said he had received from Capt. Guy Burlingame of the Washington force, though the same officials had no recollection of such a shooting.

The other car which figured in the Falls Church crash was driven by M. J. Veach, of 1517 Wisconsin avenue northwest. It was not badly damaged and no one was hurt in the crash. Washington police said they would bring Woodyard back here after Virginia was through with him, to face a charge of grand larceny in conection with the theft of the car.

New Theory Held In Triple Slaying

Authorities Believe Man Killed Them to Punish Wife He Suspected.

Martinsburg, W. Va., July 23 (A.P.). County authorities, not satisfied with the explanation of Taylor Hott, self-confessed slayer of his three children, that he killed them because their mother was unable to care for them, today started working on a theory that the crime was committed by Hott to punish his wife for suspected association with other men.

Physicians who examined Hott for the State in an effort to forestall a possible plea of insanity said Hott told them he had intended leaving his wife Monday night if she continued her frequent excursions from their home.

The three victims, Gertrude Virginia, 7; Calvin W., 6, and Floyd Preston, 5, were found Monday morning in the water of a quarry hole near here with cloths tied about their throats and bruises on their bodies. Hott related in a confession that he lured the children to the spot on the pretense of taking them in wading, and pushed them into the water. He exonerated his wife of any connection with the crime. Hott is held in jail awaiting grand jury action.

ARLINGTON COUNTY LIGHT RATE CUT DUE

Power Company Officials at Meeting of Public Utility Commission.

MAJ. KEPHART HONORED

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Efforts to bring about a reduction in the electric light rates for Arlington County were laid before the Public Utility Commission at its meeting held at the courthouse last night. As stated by representatives of the Virginia Public Service Co., which furnishes electric light service for the county, the question of a reduction has for some time been given serious consideration by officials of the company. It was further stated that it is planned to go before the Public Utility Corporation at Richmond about the first of August or before with a request that a reduction be granted. As to the amount of the reduction representatives of the company stated they were not at this time at liberty to say.

Chairman James W. Head stated that the company's representatives came before the commission at its request as the matter of rates has been one of the principal studies of the commission since its creation by the county board of supervisors two months ago.

The secretary was instructed to write to the president of the Arlington County Civic Federation and request that all matters pertaining to the public utilities be presented to the commission for its consideration.

Chairman Head stated that the commission was created to make studies of the public utilities in the county and that if all matters of this nature are presented to them they can better function.

Having made much progress with its study of the electric light situation and having every assurance that a reduction is in sight, the commission will now give its attention to the question of a reduction in the gas rates for Arlington County, according to Chairman Head.

Maj. C. I. Kephart, secretary of the Public Utility Commission of Arlington County, has been appointed by Gov. John Garland Pollard a delegate to the Institute of Public Affairs, which meets at Charlottesville, Va., August 2 to 16, inclusive.

Supervisor B. M. Hedrick, of Arlington district, who has been for some time in the limelight as a result of the proceedings now pending in the Circuit Court of Arlington County in which he has been called upon to show cause why he should not be removed from office for his activities in connection with the installation of water and sewer in Waycroft subdivision, which is owned and developed by the Arlington Investment Corporation of which he is a stockholder and director, announced yesterday that the note due the county for $9,175.78 has been paid and was paid on July 17 at the Clarendon Trust Co. the day it came due.

As stated by Hedrick, this amount is the total amount of indebtedness due the county for the installation of sewer and water in the Waycroft subdivision. The payment of the note, as he states, clears up one of the most important parts of the attack made in the petition presented to the court by the committee of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County.

"The note was given the county on April 17 at its April meeting for a period of 90 days. At the opening of the proceedings on July 8, the court was informed that the note would be paid when due and it has been paid," said Hedrick.

According to an announcement made yesterday by General Chairman A. C. Scheffel in charge of the arrangements for the annual carnival to be given by the Arlington Volunteer Fire Department beginning the week of August 2, plans are being rapidly completed.

Cooperating with the department, Chairman Scheffel further announces that the ladies' auxillary will have charge of the following booths: Hot dog, grabbag, popularity contest, coffee, cake and lunch.

Many new features have been added to the program and indications are that the carnival this year will far exceed any of past years.

The carnival this year marks the seventh anniversary of the department as a motorized fire department and the sixteenth anniversary of the organization of a bucket brigade fire department in Arlington.

The charge of trespassing lodged against Dominic Venezie was dismissed in police court yesterday by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas.

Venezie was arrested Monday night when seen prowling about the rear of the home of N. Rex Cillier, in Lyon Village, but no evidence could be produced to show that he had in any way any connection with the many robberies recently reported to the police from Lyon Village and other sections of the county.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock picked baseball teams from the Arlington Rotary and Arlington County Monarch Clubs will meet on the athletic field at the Washington-Lee High School. Much interest is being manifested in the forthcoming game and a large crowd is looked for.

The ladies of the Arlington County Business and Professional Woman's Club will serve refreshments.

The Cherrydale Lodge, No. 42, A. F. and A. M., announce plans have been completed for its annual outing to Morgantown, Md., Saturday.

State Senator Frank L. Ball, of Arlington County, has been elected to the board of directors and a member of the by-laws committee of the Virginia State Automobile Association which was recently organized at Asheville, N. C., at the convention of the Automobile Association.

The State organization was perfected to advocate better traffic laws and better laws relating to the protection and regulation of automobiles.

The structure is to be erected by a corporation organized for the purpose, E. C. Ivey being president of the concern.

The work will be started on the new building in a short time. It is to be the tallest structure here.

CONDUCT CHARGES QUASHED BY COURT

Technicality Wins Point for Town Bailiff in Prince Georges County.

OTHER CASES ARE HEARD

Charges of disorderly conduct and operating a disorderly house which had been preferred against Town Bailiff Howard Dove, of Mount Rainier, as the result of a raid on his house by town police were quashed yesterday by Judge J. Chew Sheriff in Hyattsville Branch of Prince Georges County Police Court. Warrants charging disorderly conduct issued against eight other persons present at the party also were quashed.

The charges were thrown out when the contention of Defense Attorney J. Wilson Ryon that the warrants were faulty was upheld. The judge said, however, that new warrants properly drawn could be issued. The warrants alleged "behaving in a disorderly manner" and defense counsel maintained that the town ordinance under which they were drawn regulates disorderly conduct and not behavior. He also contended that there is no town ordinance regulating operation of a disorderly house.

Charges of possession of 96 bottles of alleged home brew which had been lodged against Leonard A. Pipkin, stepfather of Dove, were postponed when Corporation Counsel Bird R. Dolby informed the court that the chemical analysis of the alleged home brew had not been completed. Mr. Bird said last night that he did not know as yet whether or not he would secure new warrants, but he believes it probable.

John Polita, proprietor of a shoe store in Capital Heights, Md., was fined $150 on charges of possession of intoxicants yesterday by Judge Sheriff, in Hyattsville Police Court. He was arrested in a series of raids Saturday night by County Policeman Claude Reese and Deputy Sheriff Ralph Brown. Benjamin Noel, proprietor of a poolroom, also raided by Officers Reese and Brown, was fined $50 on the same charges. He told the judge that the alleged liquor was intended for medicinal use as he had a weak heart.

Ted Langley, of Beltsville, charged with manufacture and possession of intoxicants as the result of a raid which followed reports of pigs squealing continuously, was fined $200 with an alternative of six months in jail. Otto Miller, arrested by town officers of Brentwood on charges of possession, appealed a fine of $50 on the grounds that the warrant was faulty.

Mrs. Mary Linhard, of Riverdale, was fined $10 on charges of assault and battery preferred by August F. Eskite, a roomer. Her husband, John Linhard, was acquitted of similar charges. Mrs. Linhard told the court that she found Eskite under the influence of intoxicants when she returned to her home after a trip and that he attempted to strike her. The judge ruled that she had lost her temper and that there was not sufficient provocation to warrant the assault.

The Prince Georges County Police Court established a record for the number of cases and amount of fines collected in the month of June, according to the report of Thomas R. Henault, clerk of the police court. The court heard 369 cases and collected fines totaling $4,865.75. This was the first time that more traffic cases had been heard at Upper Marlboro than at Hyattsville, the report shows, 223 traffic cases having been heard, 108 at Marlboro and 104 at Hyattsville, the balance having been heard at Capitol Heights and Laurel.

Victim of Charlottesville Accident Carried to Roanoke for Rites.

Charlottesville, Va., July 23.—Garfield William Whitlock, of Roanoke, was instantly killed last night when the body of a three-ton truck on which he was working at a local garage fell and crushed his head and neck.

Mr. Whitlock, a hauling contractor, was employed as foreman for the Pace Construction Co., of Roanoke, in excavation for Scott Stadium, the new athletic field at the University of Virginia.

Mr. Whitlock was a native of Floyd County, son of T. W. and Mary Thomas Whitlock, and was 57 years of age. Accompanied by his wife, the body was taken this afternoon to Roanoke for interment.

Body of North Carolina Man Found Hung by Belt

Richmond, Va., July 23 (A.P.).—The body of George Jones, 25, believed to have been from Goldsboro, N. C., was found today hanging by a belt from a tree about 4 miles from this city. He had been missing from his boarding house here since July 17.

Officers expressed the belief that the belt was his own and that it was a case of suicide. An inquest will be conducted this afternoon.

Capital Attorney Accused of Fraud

Woman Says $23,000 Paid to R. E. J. Whalen Has Been Misappropriated.

Five warrants charging false pretenses have been issued by Thomas R. Henault, clerk of the Prince Georges County Police Court, for Robert E. J. Whalen, Washington attorney. The warrants were issued following a conference between Miss Annie J. Hurley, of Hyattsille and State's Attorney J. Frank Parran, at Marlboro.

Miss Hurley charges that she gave Whalen five checks, totaling $23,000, between December 11, 1927, and June 18, 1929, to purchase a half interest in the premises at 6 Franklin street, Hyattsville, and that he had never applied the money on the property.

Suit also was filed by Attorneys H. Winship Wheatley and H. Winship Wheatley, jr., for recovery of the money. Action in the District of Columbia courts also is being taken by the plaintiff's attorneys.

BALTIMORE STRIKE IS JOINED BY 2,000

Garment Workers Seek Union Recognition, Five-Day Week by Move.

19 SHOPS ARE PARALYZED

Baltimore, July 23 (A.P.).—Demanding union recognition, a 40-hour, 5-day week, and creation of a minimum wage scale, workers in the women's garment industry of Baltimore went on strike today. Union officials said 2,000 of 3,000 persons employed in the industry left their work, paralyzing 19 of the two dozen shops in the city.

Operators, however, said there were not more than a thousand women's garment workers in Baltimore. The union leaders were accused of attempting to drive the industry out of the city.

Five strikers who were arrested early in the day on the complaint of one operator were given a hearing during the afternoon and dismissed. They were accused of creating a disturbance.

Several hundred workers left their posts this morning and gathered at union headquarters. Union officials would make no estimate of how many quit work, but declared all would be out in a few days.

The strike order followed an announcement by J. Cobb Halpern, vice president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, that efforts to effect a compromise between employers and workers had failed.

W. W. Powell, attorney for 11 of the 24 manufacturers affected, said his clients were willing to submit their demand to a workers' committee. He blamed "two New York organizers" for the strike.

IT'S NOT HEAT NOW, BUT THE HUMIDITY

Temperature Rises to Mere 94, With Moisture Well Above .50.

WATER SUPPLY BETTER

In direct contrast to the several days preceding, it was the humidity and not the heat that made life so aggravating yesterday.

While the peak temperature for the day was a mere 94 degrees at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the relative humidity was well above .50 all day, and at 8 o'clock last night was .62.

This does not necessarily imply that the surplus moisture content in the atmosphere is to be precipitated as rain today, however. In fact, the Weather Bureau predicts that today will be fair, with temperatures as about the same as yesterday. The heat wave is declared ended for the present.

Water in the Burnt Mills Reservoir, which had been down to less than a day's supply on Tuesday, rose a foot yesterday as residents in the metropolitan areas of Montgomery and Princes Georges Counties cooperated with the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission by using no more water than necessary.

The consumption thereby was reduced to such an extent, according to Robert B. Morse, engineer of the commission, that the 2,000,000 inflow stream yesterday was more than sufficient to offset withdrawals from the reservoir. Mr. Morse gave sole credit for the increased supply to the aid of residents in curtailing consumption, and said the rain of Tuesday "wasn't enough to count."

MONEY RATE DROP SPURS INVESTMENT

Federal Reserve Board Says Decline Is Due Chiefly to Banks' Ease.

MONTH'S FIGURES GIVEN

(Associated Press.)

Open market money rates have declined to the lowest point in more than five years and the rates charged customers to the lowest level in two years.

The Federal Reserve Board said yesterday, in its monthly review of financial and business conditions, that the drop was due chiefly to the continued policy of ease on the part of Federal reserve banks, represented in June by the purchase of $50,000,000 of Government securities in the open market, reduction of reserve bank buying rates for bankers' acceptances, and further reduction of discount rates at Cleveland, New York, and Chicago.

New York Rate Record Low.

"The discount rate at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, as reduced on June 20 from 3 to 2½ per cent, is now the lowest that has ever been established at any Federal Reserve Bank," the board said. "Reserve bank credit outstanding decreased in June by about $22,000,000, and at $977,000,000 for the week ended June 28 was $344,000,000 lower than a year ago, with discounts for member banks at $257,000,000, nearly $750,000,000 lower than a year ago. Member bank credit outstanding, which has been increasing since February, increased further in June to a level higher than at any other time except at the end of 1929 and during the October-November break in the security market.

"From the middle of May to June 25 the increase in the loans and investments of reporting member banks in leading cities amounted to about $525,000,000, including for the last half of June an increase in all other loans and for the period as a whole a further substantial growth in loans on securities and in investments."

Investment Holdings Increase.

The board said easier conditions in the open market, evidenced in particular by low rates for call loans, acceptances and commercial paper, at a time when the effective demand from customers for over-the-counter loans has been lessened by business depression, have influenced member banks to increase their holdings of investments.

The increase for member banks in leading cities has been almost continuous since the middle of March, when the money market was for days exceptionally easy and amounted in the period from March 12 to June 25 to $550,000,000. The increase since last October, when the investment portfolio of those banks was at the lowest level since in 1927, has approximated $690,000,000, bringing the total to the highest level in more than a year.

The board said available information for member banks outside leading cities indicated that the position of those banks in June was easier than at the same season of any other recent year, except 1927.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

OPINION is right sharply divided, depending upon the section of the country where it is held, as to whether the Old Guard or the Progressives are doing the Republican party the most harm.

It is the serious conviction here that the Young Guard is doing the party more harm than either of these two groups could ever hope to do. And when the Young Guard is referred to the reference is mostly to two or three men. The Young Guard, or the Youngs Turks, are composed, of course, of that flock of fledglings serving their first time, but there are only two or three who have been active against the other two groups.

• • • •

AND of them, whether it is a question of political ineptitude or downright stupidity or simply an insatiable ambition that is driving them is hard to tell.

The point is that the Republican organization must seem quite apparent to everybody by now to be in a sorry mess. There is the Huston squabble; there is the recurring Moses controversy; there is always the advice to the President opposed to that of the party leaders and invariably wrong.

The Young Guard is at the bottom of it all.

• • • •

IT is said that "Oh, if Huston doesn't retire the Democrats will make him an issue against us."

Well, a hand-embroidered party standard is hereby offered for every vote the Democrats get by talking about Huston. It is unnecessarily flattering to the chairmanship to say that he rates this much.

And it is true that Jimmy Burke and Treasurer Nutt are the two most active workers against Huston. Burke is, of course, of the Old Guard, though Nutt is of the new crowd. But the public agitation did not originate with these two men and they would be hamstrung now if they did not have the support of the Young Guard.

• • • •

THE trouble with the Young Guard, or rather the two or three members of it, is that they are always slipping poisonous propaganda into the newspapers.

One day they intend to demand Moses' resignation and the next day Huston must go. It was not so many months ago that they were also going to get Watson's scalp and make Senator McNary their Senate leader in his place.

They never get anybody, of course. It is not within their feeble efforts to do so and one gets the impression that they have never attempted seriously to do anything other than to talk. When it comes to this they are very adept, but they are certainly belying the Republicans' reputation of keeping their differences from the public eye.

Men Visit President and Leave Soon Afterward for New York.

LETTER DRAFTED, BELIEF

Capitol talking with Senators Watson and Moses during the day.

Quite naturally there was speculation as to whether Messrs. Burke and Nutt went to New York with ambassador plenipotentiary powers to ask Mr. Huston to resign. It does not seem likely that these two would be selected to go and try to reason with him, because Mr. Huston looks upon them as the spearhead of the attack on him and his friends back here have been saying that neither one of them should get the impression that Mr. Huston intends to quit without at least trying to take them down with him.

The relations between Messrs Burke and Nutt on the one hand and Mr. Huston on the other are so strained, in fact, that it may be they will get no closer to him in New York than the telephone.

There has been a report around here in political circles for some time, with considerable apparent authenticity, that Mr. Hoover has drafted a letter demanding Huston's resignation which he intends to let go if Huston does not resign. If this is true it is not unreasonable to believe that this letter was shown—and there are reports that it was—to Burke and Nutt yesterday in order that they could tell Huston just what awaits a prolongation of his stubbornness.

Sure to Deliver News.

In view of what Huston's friends are saying about Nutt and Burke, however, there is every reason to believe that if they are possessed of information concerning the presidential letter they will impart it to Huston by telephone or perhaps by messenger.

There are rather definite indications that the President is determined that the controversy be settled now, however. With the Senate gone he is having more time to study the political situation of his party, and, although there is no more unimportant job in the party at this time than the national chairmanship, in so far as campaigns are concerned at least, the President quite naturally wants the Huston business out of the newspapers.

In so far as fundamentals are concerned it does not make any difference who serves as party chairman until 1932, and this will likely be emphasized when Mr. Huston's successor is announced.

Huston Return Hinted.

There was expectation in some quarters that Huston planned to return to Washington today. The fact that Burke, Nutt and Goodrich have all gone off looking for him, however, would seem to discount this.

Two Children Killed By Bomb; Seek Father

Barnesboro, Pa., July 23 (A.P.).—Two children were killed and their mother injured early today in the explosion of a charge of dynamite believed set by the father of the children as a result of differences with his wife. The explosion demolished the front of the home in which Mrs. K. Terry Langham and her four children were living at Emeigh Run, near here.

Two of the children escaped injury. Those killed were Perry Arthur, 16 months, and Larue, 6 years old. Police search for Langham was instituted after officers were told of differences he had had with his wife, and that he had been seen near the home shortly before the explosion.

Maj. Ackerson Injured By Crash of Airplane

Butte, Mont., July 23 (A.P.).—Maj Gilbert H. Eckerson, flying from Portland, Oreg., to New York, crashed last night in mountain country 33 miles southeast of here. He was not seriously hurt, so far as could be learned by telephone communication. He is being brought to a hospital here.

The plane was demolished. The engine was found 60 feet from the fuselage. The accident ocurred during the night while Eckerson was headed toward Minneapolis, where he expected to make his first stop. The wrecked plane and injured aviator were found by Elsie Pogoson, 19-year-old ranch girl, who was out riding this morning.

Three Reds in Alabama Sentenced for Vagrancy

Birmingham, Ala., July 23 (A.P.).—Three admitted Communists were convicted of vagrancy here today and each was sentenced to serve 12 months in prison and pay a fine of $50. The defendants, Tom Johnson, Harry Jackson, and Frank Burns, testified on the witness stand that they were affiliated with the Communist party.

Gilbert Lewis, a Negro member of the group, was released on condition he leave the city. Detectives testified they had been delivering speeches in Birmingham in advocacy of Communistic doctrines.

Events of the War 13 Years Ago Today

JULY 24, 1917.

Russians fled pell mell before German and Austro-Hungarian armies.

British Parliament voted $3,350,000,000 credit, bringing total war expenditures of the nation to $26,460,000,000.

Shipping Board row ended with resignations of William Denman, chairman, and Maj. Gen. George W. Goethals, manager of the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

Secretary McAdoo announced United States would need additional $5,000,000,000 for war expenses.

36 BODIES YIELDED BY MOSELLE RIVER

American Boy Among Those to Die in Collapse of Bridge.

HINDENBURG CUTS TOUR

Coblenz, Germany, July 23 (A.P.).—The recovery of thirty-six bodies from the Moselle River here following yesterday's collapse of a pontoon bridge marked the tragic end today of what promised to be one of the most joyous occasions in the life of venerable President von Hindenburg, who four days ago started from Berlin on a triumphal tour of the liberated Rhineland.

Gloom shrouded the Rhineland tonight and spread over all Germany. Radio programs, social functions, and festive celebrations were called off everywhere as an expression of national grief.

Lured by Illumination.

Sorrow was deepest in this city, once occupied by troops of the American Expeditionary Force. It was for the most part citizens of this town who, eager to see the illumination of the former Fortress of Ehrenbreitstein, on the right bank of the Rhine, overcrowded the frail bridge that spans an estuary of the Moselle near its confluence with the Rhine.

Among the victims, of whom nineteen were women and girls, four young children and thirteen men, there was also an American boy, 6-year-old Raymond Lawler, of Akron, Ohio. Like the German youngsters alongside of him, he had stepped on the bridge with his German grandparents to gaze at the fascinating lights and the fireworks, part of the Rhineland's celebration. He and his grandfather perished.

Follows Mine Tragedy.

President von Hidenburg immediately canceled his engagements for Treve and Aix-la-Chappelle. Instead, he attended memorial exercises in the City Council Hall and spoke a few words of sympathy, and then departed for Berlin, where he arrived tonight.

The Coblenz tragedy is the second within a fortnight to try German nerves. It came less than two weeks after the Neurode mining accident, in which more than 150 coal miners lost their lives.

Colonial Methods In Masonry Revived

Bricks Will Be Made by Hand to Rebuild Birthplace of Washington.

(Associated Press.)

Brickmaking on colonial standards has been revived at Wakefield, Va., to insure that the reproduction of the birthplace of George Washington will be as exact to the last detail as is possible.

The National Park Service reported yesterday that the bricks are being made of native clay by hand so they will duplicate in appearance the bricks of the old Washington homestead, where the first President was born nearly 200 years ago.

The restoration work is being conducted by the National Park Service in collaboration with the Wakefield National Memorial Association. Plans for the reproduction have been made from the foundation of the house, which was destroyed by fire on Christmas Day, 1780, and from old records. The house was a typical colonial home, with a central hall and four rooms on the first floor, and with an upper story of the same size.

WORLD POPULATION ONE-TENTH LARGER

Nations' League Gives Data for 15 Years; Analyzes Industrial Progress.

U. S. PRODUCTION FALLS

Geneva, July 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The world's population in 1928 was 10 per cent greater than in 1913, according to a memorandum just issued by the economic section of the League of Nations.

In the same period, production of foodstuffs and raw materials has increased 25 per cent, and the volume of world trade by 22 per cent. Incomplete statistics for last year indicate that even more striking progress in world production and trade was made during those twelve months.

The increase in the world's population between 1926 and 1928 is estimated at 35,000,000, an average increase of 1 per cent per annum. The greatest increase has been in South America.

Industrial Progress Rapid.

The report indicates that in recent years industrial development has gone on at a faster rate than production of raw materials. The iron, steel and mechanical industries, including engineering, shipbuilding, automobile manufacturing and electrical industry, have increased 25 per cent since 1925. On the other hand, there has been relatively slow development in cotton, wool and other textile industries, only partly offset by an increase in natural and artificial silks.

Production of electricity increased one-third between 1925 and 1928.

Since 1926 Europe has continued to make steady progress in international trade. Production of foodstuffs in Europe, including Russia, has been greater than in any other part of the world. Europe's production of other raw materials has been exceeded only by South America. While North America has made new production records since 1926, the ratio of increase has been considerably behind that of Europe and the manufacturing activities of Canada and the United States, which reached heights in 1928, began to decline toward the end of 1929.

African Production Increases.

African production has been growing steadily and the 1927-28 increase on that continent was second only to Eastern and Central Europe.

Asia's production has also increased, but its foreign trade shows a decline in the last two years.

Compared with 1913 the prices of manufactured articles, taken as a group, appear to have remained relatively higher last year than raw materials and foodstuffs, at least in Europe.

Pair With District Auto Arrested in Shooting

Burnsville, N. C., July 23 (A.P.).—Deputy Sheriff C. W. Proffitt was shot in the head and neck last night while attempting to arrest a man and woman who refused to pay for soft drinks they received at a country store near here. The couple fired from an automobile at other officers who later captured them. Two rifles were found in the car.

The man gave his name as Myron L. Kiser, of Seattle, Wash., and the woman said she was Pauline Taylor, of Tennessee. Their automobile had a District of Columbia license tag.

Brooklyn Man's Death In Fall Called Suicide

New York, July 23 (A.P.).—A man whom police identified from cards in his wallet as Herbert L. Witinebel, Brooklyn business man, fell from the roof of the twenty-story Paramount Hotel in West Forty-sixth street this morning to his death.

He was not registered at the hotel under his own name, and officials called his death suicide. Witinebel was an official of the Commonwealth Color & Chemical Co., a clubman and a figure in Brooklyn society. His wife and child were living at a summer home on Long Island Sound.

Chiefs in India Silent After Visit to Gandhi

Bombay, India, July 23 (A.P.).—Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and M. Jayakar, prominent Indian leaders, had a five-hour conference with Mahatma Gandhi, Indian nationalist chief, at Yeroda Prison in Poona today for the purpose of seeking a settlement of the present civil disobedience campaign.

The interview took place in the jail office with no other person present. Neither Sapru nor Jayakar would make a statement when they left the prison.

GOLDING RELIEVED OF ALBANY DUTIES

involve any complaint filed against him in the line of enforcement work.

Mr. Golding was reported as having been in Washington several days ago. But Mr. Woodcock told the New York World News Service—"He has not been in Washington, since I have been director. If he has, I don't know anything about it."

The Prohibition Bureau at Washington refused to deny or confirm that Mr. Golding had been suspended, but later Assistant Prohibition Director Howard Jones admitted that a "civilian had filed a complaint against Capt. Golding, and it is now being investigated."

A complete statement concerning the case will be issued immediately after it is finished, Col. Woodcock indicated today.

Agent Kohler, now in charge of the Albany special agents, refused to discuss the case and called in a stenographer to record a conversation he carried on with a reporter. He explained that "the government is entitled to protection in its own office."

"Hard-Boiled" Golding came into the prohibition spotlight about five years ago when the then Commissioner Doran designated him as a personal staff man and sent him around on junkets from one end of the country to the other, regardless of whose district he might be invading.

His raids were startling, spectacular and often disastrous to Washington, for court rebukes, official apoligies, both state and federal investigations, were the usual aftermath.

WEALTHY WOMAN'S DEATH KEPT SECRET

estate holdings amassed by John G. Wendel, a fur trader in the days of John Jacob Astor, the fortune now is estimated at more than $100,000,000.

Adhering to their grandfather's principle of never selling property once acquired, the sisters refused to part with the old mansion, despite many high offers, and continued to live behind drawn curtains in the midst of Fifth avenue's traffic roar. After dark Miss Ella would venture forth to give her poodle, Tobey, an airing in a high-walled back yard, worth untold thousands of dollars and used only for that purpose.

There are no telephones, electricity or newspapers in the old mansion. Sputtering gas jets light its halls and ancient servants care for its occupants.

Mrs. Swope was the only one of six sisters to wed, the others having been forbidden marriage, rumor said, by the edict of their brother, John G. Wendel, that "no man is good enough."

Many years ago Miss Georgiana, then a young woman, went abroad. She returned speaking several languages and imbued with ideas of a different life. A few years later she was declared mentally incompetent and placed in a sanitarium, where she died in 1927.

In recent years Mrs. Swope assumed management of the family's real estate holdings, which stretched from the Bowery, Maiden Lane and Grand street to middle Broadway. Almost daily she might be seen journeying on the elevated train to her small offices on lower Broadway, where business was conducted strictly according to the four tenets of the Wendel family.

"Never mortgage; no property for sale; Broadway moves northward ten blocks a decade; tenants must make their own repairs."

Chicago, July 23 (A.P.).—Gene G. Oliver, assessor of Cook County, was convicted in Federal Court today on three charges of evading income tax payments. He was sentenced to 18 months in Federal prison and fined $12,500.

Oliver, a member of the Republican County Central Committee, was accused of dodging tax payments on an income of more than $250,000 in the last three years. On each of two indictments he was sentenced to 18 months in the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, the sentences to run concurrently, and fined $2,500 each. On a third indictment containing three counts he was convicted and fined $2,500 for each count and sentenced to six months in jail. This sentence was to run concurrently with the others.

Two Men Are Killed Over Pupil Whipping

Heber Springs, Ark., July 23 (A.P.).—Boge Cannon, a farmer, and his son, Jim Cannon, were shot to death at Wolf Bayou School, near here today, and Lelas Murphy, 20 years old, is in prison accused of murder as the aftermath of an attack on Murphy's wife, a school teacher, because she attempted to whip one of the Cannon children yesterday. Mrs. Murphy was prevented from whipping the child by older members of the family and members of her class, who advanced in a body to the front of the room and beat her severely.

Boge Cannon later demanded that Mrs. Murphy resign. Upon learning that she was back in the school today, he and his son went to the school. Murphy was there ahead of them. They quarreled and Murphy and Boge Cannon exchanged shots. Murphy was not wounded.

DIAMONDS
THE three essentials in judging diamond values are: Degree of perfection, exact carat size and color. Color is the least understood and most abused term. Such phrases as fiery, brilliant, etc., are very pretty, but have nothing to do with color. A tinge of yellow in a diamond makes it much less valuable. A drop of pure distilled water is the best illustration of what is meant by "finest color" in diamonds. We shall gladly explain these terms to you. Our solitaires are priced from—

"HIDDEN TRUSTS"
THERE is no such thing as a "hidden trust" because trusts are a matter of public record and will be easily found by any competent title examiner.
In buying homes one should in every case have the title examined by a title company whose certificate will disclose the record of every trust, lien, judgment, tax sale, etc., and he should make settlement for his purchase at the office of the title company employed to search the title.
The title company is responsible for making settlement of the transaction in accordance with the terms of the contract and as a neutral agent protects the interests of all parties.
This Board has consistently recommended the above policy.

GLENN H. CURTISS, AIR PIONEER, DEAD

Blood Clot in Artery Cause of Aviation Expert's Sudden Demise.

FLIERS SEND TRIBUTES

Buffalo, N. Y., July 23 (A.P.).—Glenn Hammond Curtiss, pioneer aviator and guiding genius of the aeronautical world, died suddenly today in the General Hospital here. He had been operated on for appendicitis July 11, and had been reported out of danger and well on the way to complete recovery.

The cause of death was pulmonary embolus, a blood clot in a main artery close to the heart.

News of the death of the man to whom aviation owed much of its achievement in the past quarter century came with a shocking suddenness, but brought quick tributes from fliers and aeronautical leaders in all parts of the country.

Excused From Witness Chair.

Mr. Curtiss was said to have been suffering from appendicitis, with recurring acute attacks, for some time. He was involved in a suit brought against him by the Herring-Curtiss Co. in a Rochester court to recover nearly $1,000,000. The complaint charged violation of patent rights and misappropriation of funds. Curtiss failed to appear in court.

Attorneys for the company charged he was feigning illness and the court ordered three physicians to conduct an examination to determine his fitness to testify.

The physicians reported he was suffering from appendicitis and he was taken to the Buffalo hospital from Hammondsport on Lake Keuka, his birthplace, known as "the cradle of aviation" because of his activities there.

Four Immediate Survivors.

He is survived by his widow, a son, Glenn, of Hammondsport and Miami, Fla.; a sister, Mrs. Ruth Hesley, of Miami; his mother, Mrs. Lulu Curtiss, of Hammondsport, and a half-brother, Carl G. Adams, of Miami.

Mr. Curtiss carried on many of his earlier activities here in Buffalo. In a suburb, Kenmore, is situated the Curtiss Airplane & Motor Co., one of the principal units of the organization which links the names of aviation's leading pioneers, Curtiss and Wright.

Hammondsport, N. Y., July 23 (A. P.).—Funeral services for Glenn H. Curtiss, who died in Buffalo today, will take place at the Curtiss residence here Friday afternoon, it was announced tonight. The Rev. G. P. Summerville, rector of St. James' Episcopal Church here, will officiate. Burial will be in Pleasant View Cemetery in Hammondsport.

Funeral of Mary Raff To Be Conducted Today

Raff, of 923 Ninth street northeast. The Rev. Dr. C. S. Abbott, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, will officiate.

The girl was shot twice, in the face and in the chest, by Ross Golden, World War veteran, on July 15 at the residence of Mrs. Lula Mills, sister of Golden, on B street near Eleventh street northeast. Golden took his own life after wounding the girl, as well as his sister, who tried to intervene. The wounded girl waged a valiant fight for life, and for a time her recovery was expected.

LINDSAY QUITS INDIA TUBERCULOSIS UNIT

He had not been advised earlier of the disruption of the committee because of his absence from Washington. Secretary Wilbur's formal acceptance of membership on the committee stated that "if the British Ambassador joins I will do likewise."

While full details of the disbanding of the committee were not available yesterday, it was learned that the prime cause for dissension was that the members who resigned did so in opposition to policies which they charged tended to divert the activities of the committee from its real purpose of relieving tuberculosis.

Other members of the committee, who have not yet indicated which faction they will side with, include Mrs. Winifred Holt Mather, Mrs. Richard T. Merrick, Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman and Dr. Robert H. H. Goheen, head of the Union Mission Sanitarium at Arogyavaram, South India. Dr. Goheen sailed recently to return to India before the discord became audible and, so far as can be learned, is not yet aware of the present situation.

Black Duck case," Stone said. "There was no warning, except to flash the light before firing. We had no rum aboard, nor had we had any."

Commander P. A. Nichols, of base 18 here, expressed regret that the two men were wounded, but asserted the Marge was well known as a rum-runner to the Coast Guard and every effort had been made to halt the craft before firing on her.

"I have forwarded charges of failure to stop on signal and resisting boarding officers to Boston," Commander Nichols said, "and, although no liquor was found on the Marge, there was evidence there had been some in the form of a strong odor, bags, straw and such articles. The men received only slight wounds and were attended by our doctors."

Commander Nichols added: "The Marge was really a motor boat used for rumrunning, although she had yacht's papers. She was well known to the Coast Guard as a rum boat."

Two Are Drowned In English Floods

Spectacular Rescues Seen as Cloudburst Fills Esk River Valley.

Whitby, Yorkshire, England, July 23 (A.P.).—Two lives are already known to have been lost and other fatalities are feared in consequence of a flood today that followed a cloudburst in the valley of the Esk River.

A lifeboat from this fishing port, equipped with rocket and other life-saving apparatus, was busily engaged far inland this afternoon in an attempt to rescue the marooned people. Many families throughout the area are imprisoned in the upper floors of their houses.

Train service has been disrupted over a wide area because of bridges having been swept away. The roads leading to Ruswarp, Sleights, Rushworth and other localities in the inundated area are buried under many feet of water.

Spectacular rescues were effected by the life-saving crews, who did particularly effective work in Ruswarp.

$73,000 in Drugs Seized.

New York, July 23 (A.P.).—Three cases of morphine, valued at $73,500, were seized by agents of the Treasury Department last Friday on the steamship Innoko, of the American Diamond Line, plying from Antwerp to New York. Announcement of the seizure today said no arrests were made.

linquency of a minor after the child had testified that Mrs. Padgett had helped her in finding ways to be with Crockett on various occasions, and had urged her to accompany him to Canada when Crockett had complained that his wife and the police were "bothering" him.

Mrs. Crockett also appeared before the court to answer charges that she had made threats against the Siasons girl's life, and was placed under $500 peace bond.

Sheriff E. P. Kirby testified that Mrs. Crockett had sworn to kill the child if she ever "got her hands on her," and this testimony was corroborated by Deputy Sheriff Vernon Cockrell. Gladys Louise testified that Mrs. Crockett had visited her in the jail and declared that she would kill her the "minute she got out."

Mrs. Crockett's defense was that she had not threatened the child specifically, but that she had asserted that "if I ever catch any girl with my husband I'll kill her," and that such a declaration was only the natural reaction of any wife under such circumstances.

This plea was made through her attorney, Judge Moncure, who refused to permit Mrs. Crockett to address the court. An appeal was noted.

Fashion Forecasts

By Ethel M Parker
Stylist and Publicity Manager

Now attending the Amos Parrish Fashion Clinic at the Ritz Carlton Hotel New York City

The official heat record here in New York yesterday was 99 in the shade, 137 in the sun and I am sure it must have been 115 at least in the Ritz ballroom, but at the end of that sizzling day we all decided it was well worth it.

The Palais Royal sent me up to cover this Clinic and to give to the Washington women the first detailed news of authentic fashions for Fall.

And it is good news for a greater majority of women than it has been in past years. No longer are the fashions designed merely for the flapper type of 100 pounds or less, but they are designed for women of normal build—and she who can look like a Greek Goddess—statuesque is the word describing her—is to be the last word in fashion this season.

This season we may all buy the clothes that are suited to our own particular personality—we will not all walk down F street meeting every other woman wearing a hat called the Gloria Swanson—or a coat named after some other movie star. We may exercise our own good judgment—if we have any—and carefully select those clothes which are most becoming to our own particular type of beauty—for clothes this season must be becoming—and not worn just because they may be in fashion. They must be wearable.

And this season too, the styles are more definite. We know the hem line is to be even—no more fluttering, pointed, uneven hemlines. We know the length is to be to the middle calf for general daytime wear, or a trifle shorter for sports wear. That evening dresses will be ankle length, but just escaping the floor.

And the coats are lovelier this season than for years, I think you will agree. They tend to the long graceful lines, but there are several fashionable silhouettes. There are coats with wide wrap-around closing; coats with the straight line with gradual flare achieved by high seaming; another with low placed flare and the coat with the bolero or bloused back. The last two are particularly good to help conceal large hips and to achieve the long lines so much desired.

These are just a few high spots of the first day and lack of space prevents further detail. But if I survive the heat of another three days, I shall be able to give you all the news of the best fashions for Fall.

I'll be seeing you—

WHALEN FACTS BOB UP AGAIN IN RED QUIZ

Inquirers Sent by Congress Still Think Documents of Importance.

ARMTORG HISTORY TOLD

New York, July 23 (A.P.).—The special congressional committee investigating Communist activities in the United States indicated today it still believes the "Whalen documents" are of considerable importance.

Again and again the questioning was brought back to these letters, photostatic copies of which were made public last May by Grover A. Whalen when he was police commissioner and which purported to show that Soviet officials in Moscow directed Communist activities here partly through officials of the Amtorg Trading Corporation.

The letters were first mentioned today in a long statement submitted by Peter A. Bogdanov, Amtorg president. It outlined the history of Amtorg as the Soviet purchasing agent and said continuance of the company's $100,000,000 annual business here was threatened unless charges such as are contained in the Whalen documents are investigated and refuted. It also pointed out that the same day the letters were published Bogdanov wrote Whalen calling them forgeries.

Representative Hamilton Fish, jr., chairman of the committee, examined Bogdanov, bringing out that although the Amtorg president considered the Whalen papers of such importance, he himself had conducted only a cursory investigation concerning them. Bogdanov said he considered the burden of proof was Whalen's. He called the documents forgeries, he said, after conferring with other Amtorg officials, who expressed doubt as to their authenticity. One of the officials was a man to whom one of the letters was supposed to have been addressed. This man said he never received such a letter.

Youth on Deathbed Names Deputy Slayer

Waycross, Ga., July 23 (A.P.).—Palmer C. Corbett, 21, died in a hospital here today from gunshot wounds which he said on his deathbed were inflicted by Deputy Sheriff Ed White, of Atkinson County, last night.

He said he and his brother, S. B. Corbett, came upon officers as they were coming out of a swamp. They ran, he said, and Deputy White fired, five buckshot entering his body. Palmer Corbett said he had a gallon jug of liquor in his possession when he was shot.

Plane Falls 5,000 Feet, Crushing Pilot in Wreck

Indianapolis, July 23 (A.P.).—Theodore B. Madden, Indianapolis pilot, was killed late today when his monoplane fell 5,000 feet at the Brightwood airport here, pinning his mutilated body in the wreckage. The cause of the accident was unknown.

Witnesses said the craft fell nose downward striking trees and imbedding itself in the ground. Persons near the flying field said they could hear the roar of the motor as the plane fell.

Warrants Out as Bank Finds $92,000 Missing

Brady, Tex., July 23 (A.P.).—Officers of the Commercial National Bank, the largest financial institution in Brady, today announced they had discovered a shortage of approximately $92,000 in its accounts. Warrants of arrest were sworn out against four men.

"Our bank is in sound condition and our depositors and customers need not worry," said W. B. Crothers, president of the bank.

San Diego Bank Fails To Open for Business

San Diego, Calif., July 23 (A.P.).—The California Savings & Commercial Bank failed to open its doors here today. Will C. Wood, State superintendent of banks, said it was closed because of internal conditions.

"Total deposits are approximately $1,200,000, and from present indications loss to depositors, if any, should be small," Mr. Wood said.

GUN IS BEST BAKER CLEW

the gloves as his he told police, according to Mr. Gloth, that grease and dog hairs would probably be found on them. Campbel lowns a dog.

He accused Herman H. Barrere of taking the gloves from his home. According to Lieut. Kelly, they are of the size worn by Campbell.

Not Sure Now of Ownership.

During his talk with police, Campbell first identified the gloves as his, then he said that they were similar to a pair once owned by him. Now he says that he is not sure that they are his.

Early yesterday Lieut. Kelly, Mr. Gloth and Sheriff Fields, who is in charge of the investigation, received a tip that Campbell's car had been driven to Arlington County from ashington by another man on the night of April 11. This man was located and the tip proved false.

At the home of Frank Campbell, brother of the suspect, Mrs. Campbell told authorities that on the night of April 11 she left her work at the Potomac Electric Power Co. at 5 o'clock. Before getting a bus to Virginia Highlands she stopped at a Washington department store and purchased a Boy Scout belt for her son by a previous marriage.

The woman is uncertain whether she took the 5:20 or the 5:40 o'clock bus from Ninth and B streets. However, she is certain that she arrived home in the neighborhood of 6 o'clock. Upon arrival, she said, her husband was preparing dinner. Dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock.

Takes Boy to Scout Meeting.

Then, she said, her husband returned to take her son, Edwin Callahan, to a Scout meeting in a church near Fourteenth street and Park road northwest. She recalled that the boy was late in starting and that Campbell was sounding the horn of his auto to get him to hurry.

Upon arrival at their destination, Edwin Callahan said, his stepfather greeted Thomas King, the scoutmaster of the troop. Mr. King lives at 1649 Harvard street northwest.

Mr. Gloth, Lieut. Kelly, Sheriff Fields and Detective Sergt. Carlton Talley then learned from Mrs. Campbell that her husband called her on the telephone at 9:30 that night to tell her that he had called for the boy and that he had left the meeting. Mrs. Campbell advised him not to worry, she said, as the boy was probably in the company of friends. Campbell then asked her if she needed anything from the store. He arrived home at 10 o'clock, she said.

Stepson's Story Checks.

Edwin Callahan told the authorities that his stepfather arrived home about 5:05 o'clock on the day of the murder and began preparing dinner. The boy is certain of this because it was on the night of his scout meeting.

The boy's story virtually coincides with the story of the woman who was in company with Campbell when his car was parked near the culvert at Arlington National Cemetery two hours before Mary Baker was last seen alive. This woman told authorities that Campbell left her at her home near Dupont Circle in the neighborhood of 5 o'clock.

Mrs. Campbell's account of her husband's whereabouts on the night of April 11 is practically the same as that told by Campbell on July 4, when he was questioned by Mr. Gloth and Lieut. Kelly. On that occasion he said that on the afternoon in question he made several trips to and from Washington from his real estate office at Oak Crest. At another interrogation he said he had spent the entire afternoon at his office.

His alibi covering his activities from 3 o'clock until 5:30 o'clock has been shattered by the police. From 5:30 until 10 o'clock his story has seemed impregnable.

When confronted by evidence that he had been parked near the Arlington Cemetery between 3:30 and 4 o'clock on that afternoon, he explained to Lieut. Kelly that his motive in lying to them was to protect the identity of his companion.

Lieut. Kelly and Mr. Gloth agreed that Mrs. Campbell seemed to be telling a straightforward story, but further investigation of it will be made. While the examination was in progress Charles H. Smith, attorney for Campbell, was at her side, as was Campbell's brother, Frank.

Although Mr. Smith does not contemplate any legal move to obtain release of his client, he predicted that the Arlington County real estate dealer would leave the jail within three or four days. Mr. Smith said that he is not convinced by any means that the gun which is in the possession of police and which was given to them by Campbell is the murder gun. Mr. Smith further said that there is no precedent in Virginia in which the testimony of ballistic experts was accepted as factual.

Shortly, before 2 o'clock yesterday Mrs. Campbell, in company with a friend and her son, Edwin, visited Campbell in the Arlington County jail. They brought him food and clothing. Mrs. Campbell, in her brief talk with the suspect, reiterated her confidence in him and told him that she would remain steadfast in her belief of his innocence.

Leaving the jail, she ran hurriedly to a waiting automobile and was driven away.

Meanwhile, Lieut. Kelly and Mr. Gloth questioned Eunice Lee, colored, of Roosevelt avenue, South Washington, Va. She formerly was employed by the Campbells as cook. Her services began six weeks ago and they terminated four weeks later. The object of the interrogation was to determine if possible whether she had ever seen a gun in Campbell's possession. She was unable to assist the authorities.

Underwood & Underwood.

MURDERED RADIO ANNOUNCER ACCUSED OF $4,000 EXTORTION

of the recent killings, were put on the spot but a few yards from where Buckley was riddled with bullets in the La Salle lobby.

Gov. Fred W. Green arrived early on the scene from Holland, Mich., coming with Col. John S. Bersey, adjutant general of Michigan. The pair flew across State to the scene of the latest gang flare-up. They conferred with State police and officials of the Detroit Police Department. Gov. Green ordered a State-wide investigation by State police.

Police recalled that the murdered man had been the confidante of gamblers and underworld leaders, a private investigator for Henry Ford in the Newberry case, and later an investigator of Ford interests for the United States Government.

One man is held for investigation in connection with the murder. He is Angelo Livecchi, a resident of the hotel. Livecchi, according to the police commissioner, was the "finger man" for the trio of gangsters who surrounded Buckley and shot him to death. Beside Buckley at the time was Jack Klein, motion picture operator, who also lives in the hotel. The lobby of the hotel was nearly deserted at the time of the early morning shooting.

The city council during the day voted a $5,000 reward for the capture and conviction of Buckley's killer and "those who instigated" the crime. This body also demanded the reinstatement of three retired veteran police executives and hinted regarding the resignation of Commissioner Wilcox.

The killing was "a terrible, terrible thing," in the opinion of Mayor Bowles. The mayor, who still acts in that capacity pending the special election that must be held within 35 days, welcomed the assistance of State officials in the investigation.

Both Klein, the motion picture operator sitting beside Buckley when he was murdered in the lobby, and Livecchi, said to be under indictment for robbery at Rochester, were at first locked up by the police as suspects or material witnesses, while a third man is being held whose name police refuse to divulge. Klein was later released.

James E. Chenot, prosecuting attorney, took over the investigation as Gov. Green was requesting the presiding judge of the circuit court to allow the police a longer time before requiring them to release suspects. He planned to confer with judges of both the recorders and circuit courts in an effort to enlist their assistance in the investigation.

Two Youths Arrested In Theft of Taxicab

Two boys are under arrest today on a charge of grand larceny after the taxicab in which they were riding collided with a tree near the Cabin John bridge early yesterday morning. The pair, Fulton D. Hutchinson, 19 years old, of the 1800 block of Twenty-fourth place southeast, and Albert L. Wilson, 19 years old, of the 1600 block of Twenty-second street southeast, were said to have stolen a City Cab from the street where the driver had left it.

Headquarters Detectives Frank Alligood and Hugh Robey, who arrested the couple, said that Wilson was on four years probation for stealing cars and that the two had earlier in the day been discharged in Police Court on a charge of stealing tires when the complainant failed to appear.

world-famous chemist says:

"Colgate's has greatest cleansing action"

WHAT do you expect of a dentifrice? Dr. Philip B. Hawk tells you what you should expect. "The prime function of a dentifrice," he declares, "is to cleanse the teeth thoroughly and safely."

Which dentifrice is best for that purpose? Dr. Hawk took 10 leading products, studied their effects, found—and this, you must remember, was an independent analysis—that "Colgate's has the greatest cleansing action because of its low surface tension." There is the impartial judgment of a world-famous chemist.

Match it with the opinions of such men as Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, Commissioner of Public Health of New York City; Dr. Hardee Chambliss, Dean of the School of Sciences, Catholic University of America; Dr. Jerome Alexander, M. S., B. S., President of Association of Consulting Chemists and Chemical Engineers; Dr. H. H. Bunzell, Ph. D., University of Chicago. You will discover the amazing fact that all these men, who have been retained to render expert opinion, are in absolute agreement with Dr. Hawk.

They find that Colgate's penetrating foam floods away food particles from the crevices and fissures of the teeth in a way ordinary tooth pastes are unable to do. It really cleans. Thus it prevents decay.

This new wealth of scientific evidence just disclosed confirms the 30 years of recommendation by dentists and scientists which has made Colgate's today the largest selling tooth paste in the world.

Dr. Hawk says:

"To ascertain the relative cleansing power of some of the most popular dentifrices, I have tested and compared them. My investigation proves that Colgate's has the greatest cleansing action because of its low surface tension. This would indicate that Colgate's not only cleans the surface readily but removes decomposing food particles by reducing their tendency to remain within the tiny crevices and fissures of the teeth. Other dentifrices, with higher surface tensions, lack this capacity to cleanse as thoroughly.

"Colgate's deserves high rank among these dentifrices because of its great power to perform the prime function of a dentifrice—to cleanse the teeth thoroughly and safely."

LEGGE DRAWS THE LINE.

Senator Capper's much-advertised call upon Chairman Legge of the Farm Board, requesting him to go into the market and buy additional wheat in the hope of boosting the price, was made doubly significant by the company that joined him on the mission. Senators Allen, McMaster, Pine and Howell clung to the coat tails of the gentleman from Kansas as he strode into the offices of the board. The presence of these politicians from the farm belt indicates that farm relief is still political, at least in their opinion.

The unofficial committee found Mr. Legge adamant in his refusal to purchase more wheat. The 60,000,000 bushels that the board already holds, he said, stands as part of the "visible supply" that is exerting a depressive influence on price. By indirection Mr. Legge referred to his statement, made earlier in the week, in which he said: "The Farm Board was created to assist the farmer and not for politics. . . . The farmers' problem is an economic one that will never be solved by any political remedies." The senators, however, insisted that the emergency called for drastic action. Buy wheat, they said in effect, bring up the prevailing price level, and let the future take care of itself. If necessary, boost the price of wheat and give the stuff to the Chinese or Indian governments for distribution to famine victims.

The Farm Board has no authority to buy wheat and give it away. It hopes to dispose of its present holdings without loss to the taxpayer. The farmers would benefit, of course, if the Government would buy huge supplies of grain and give it to China or India, but how about the taxpayer? Before the Farm Board can distribute largesse Congress must grant authority to do so.

The Farm Board will purchase no more wheat. This decision is to be commended. The project of acreage curtailment, even if it can be made effective over the militant opposition of the farm belt, will not produce visible results before the next harvest. Meanwhile, farm belt politicians will persist in the effort to divert the taxpayers' money directly from the Treasury into the pockets of the farmers. Senators Capper, Allen, McMaster, Pine and Howell would howl with rage if an attempt were made to distribute Treasury money to stock brokers who are hard hit by the stock market crash. "Stock brokers' relief" would be described by the farm belt politicians as a "plain steal." But what is the difference between using Government money to boost the price of wheat and using it to boost the price of stocks?

If Chairman Legge had not drawn the line the American taxpayers would have drawn it with a vengeance.

MOTION PICTURE AGREEMENT.

The agreement reached this week between the German and American motion picture industries marks the end of a long dispute. Under the agreement, motion picture producers of all countries will be enabled to obtain licenses to produce pictures under both German and American patents, and productions may be shown in all countries and upon all kinds of licensed apparatus. World territory for the manufacture and sale of equipment is divided into three sections, one for exclusive exploitation by the American industry, one for exploitation by the German industry and the third open to both industries on the basis of open competition. The purpose of the territorial division, it is explained, is "to provide for the full use of the manufacturing facilities of both German and American interests and to insure that the motion picture industry will be best equipped and that the greatest possible distribution will be made for motion picture producers in the shortest possible time."

American and German enterprise has assumed the lead in development of talking pictures. Each holds valuable patents, and each has disputed the validity of certain essential patents mutually claimed. The possibility that these disputes would have held up the advancement of the vocal picture art is now avoided, and the way is paved for large advances based on improved processes and original discoveries, no matter by whom claimed.

Will Hays, who engineered the agreement, is to be congratulated upon the service he has rendered the movie industry of both countries.

TARIFF COMMISSIONERS.

President Hoover is faced with the necessity of making recess appointments to the Tariff Commission. The new tariff act does not permit the present commission to continue in office after September 17. Since Congress will not be in session again until December, the new commissioners must take office before their nominations can be confirmed.

In the closing hours of the special session Senator Harrison attempted to make political capital out of the fact that the new commission had got yet been appointed. He intimated that President Hoover deliberately withheld the names because he wants the commissioners to begin their work before the Senate has a chance to scrutinize their records. The reason why the appointments have not been made lie in the Senate and not in the White House. President Hoover has offered the chairmanship of the commission to at least three distinguished citizens, and each has refused to consider it. The question of salary may have had something to do with these refusals, but the chief reason is that prominent men do not care for the mud bath to which they would be subjected by the Senate. Senator Harrison's boast that every appointee will be subjected to the third degree when the Senate reassembles explains the cause for delay.

Had the names been submitted the Senate probably would not have acted upon them at the special session. Nominations for the new Federal Power Commission were not acted upon, and as a result the old commission, made up of members of the Cabinet, who do not have time to devote to its work, may continue to function until December. When the President let it be known that he would appoint Gen. Edgar Jadwin as chairman of the Power Commission, the political sharpshooters of the Senate became so active that Gen. Jadwin withdrew his name.

Senator Harrison would be delighted if he could stampede the President into making hasty appointments. The more vulnerable the Tariff Commission is the better he likes it. But Mr. Hoover is determined to secure the services of the best men available. He is anxious to have the new commission functioning as soon as possible, because of the great amount of work before it. But it is more important to select a commission of high grade men than it is to rush the reorganization.

WHAT THE WORLD WANTS.

Viscount d'Abernon's testimony before the British liquor licensing commission is interesting and important, not in that he revealed a remarkable decrease in drunkenness in England as compared with the period before the war, but for what he had to say with respect to the effect of alcohol. Viscount d'Abernon was chairman of the government control board of liquor traffic during the World War, and is recognized as an authority on the subject of alcoholic control. He said: "In view of the fact that alcohol does badly what it sets out to do, that it is not a true stimulant and that the euphoria it brings is not exempt from a disagreeable and injurious reaction, I continue to believe in the eventual concoction of some preferable substitute. A vast fortune, together with the gratitude of humanity, would reward the discovery."

"Euphoria" is a medical term. It describes the feeling of well-being induced by the imbibing of alcoholics, and is applied to the state of feeling well. Those who have tasted immoderately of the fruit of the vine and the product of the still will agree with Viscount d'Abernon as to the "disagreeable" aftereffect that follows "euphoria." If a beverage could be concocted that would produce "euphoria" without subsequent depression, it would delight the world.

But concocting that beverage is another matter. Those who bore the banner of temperance tried to popularize nonalcoholic fruit beverages not long ago, but all who tasted of them sensed the lack of "euphoria." However, science has done marvelous things; it is not beyond the realm of possibility that a nonalcoholic, "euphoria inducing" beverage can be concocted not only to relieve humankind in less arid countries of mornings-after, but to solve the prohibition problem of the United States. Maybe, however, the fact that the beverage induced "euphoria" would put it under the ban.

SILVER AS MONEY.

When the summer tourist rolls into a Western town to buy gasoline and is handed, as change from his $10 bill, eight or nine great silver dollars, he acquires then and there a sense of gratitude that he lives in the East. Silver dollars are virtually unknown east of the Mississippi, and they are becoming scarce on the Pacific Coast. Only on the far western plains and in the valleys of the Rockies do they retain favor as money.

This state of affairs, together with the serious decline in the silver market, has led Senator Oddie, of Nevada, chairman of the Senate committee on mines and mining, to suggest coining of a new silver dollar which would be only slightly larger than the present half dollar. To avoid confusion he would have the half dollar reduced by about one-fourth. Quarters and dimes would continue at their present size. Obviously the purpose of the move is to restore silver money to popularity.

The practicability of the plan seems open to question. The public has found the small-sized paper currency so convenient that it is doubtful whether a reduction in the size of the silver dollar would create a demand for it. Even the half-dollar silver piece is gradually dropping from favor, and there is a tendency to use quarters and dimes for change. Should the smaller coins be adopted and fail to meet with public approval there would be a still further decline in the demand for silver ore, because each coin would require less.

In the days when money was scarce and a dollar would buy twice as much of most commodities as it will today, the silver dollar served its purpose. But conditions have changed. It is a nuisance to have to carry around a stock of silver money to supply one's needs. The tendency to transact business on paper or with paper money is growing every year. It is improbable that this tendency could even be checked by smaller silver coins.

Mining interests of the West will have to think out some other scheme to increase the demand for their product, or else swallow the same dose that is being administered to the farmers.

DETROIT'S GANG MURDER.

The spotlight that follows major crime and corruption has turned on Detroit. The assassination of Gerald W. Buckley, whose militant attacks upon the criminal element and the city administration figured largely in the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles, is one of the tragic features of the situation. Mr. Buckley had been warned that his radio addresses were arousing so much ire that his life was in danger. But he continued to attack the gambling and other illegal interests, and to accuse the mayor of being allied with them.

The mayor's recall and Buckley's death bring to a crisis a gangland movement that has been growing in Detroit for some time. During the twelve days of the recall campaign eleven murders were committed by gangsters. Detroit has been unable to cope with the rackets that have crept under its wings since it sprang into the position of America's fourth largest city.

The majority of the electorate seem to be convinced that the charges of inefficiency, corruption and mismanagement against Mayor Bowles are justified. Nevertheless, the law provides that he shall be a candidate in the election that is to take place in 30 days. He will doubtless have many opponents, among whom the vote will be divided. This leaves the possibility that Mayor Bowles may be elected again, in spite of his repudiation by the public. Could he then be recalled a second time?

Regardless of what the outcome may be, these incidents are certain to leave their influence upon the municipal administration. Public sentiment has been aroused, and is demanding that new measures against organized crime be taken. If the present crisis exposes conditions as they are and awakens the people to a new civic consciousness it will have served its purpose.

Smaller silver dollars and halves are demanded by Western miners to popularize their use. But what could be more popular than dollars and halves?

"OUR DUTY TO THE WORLD"

From the National Republic.

Mouthpieces of the international bankers and industrialists frequently repeat the statement that the prosperity of the United States is "dependent upon our foreign trade." To an extent that is true, but to an even greater extent it is dependent upon our domestic trade, and since our domestic trade is nine times our foreign trade, the ratio of importance of the two elements is as nine to one. Therefore the proposal that our foreign trade be promoted at the expense of our domestic production is irrational.

So long as we have hundreds of thousands of men unemployed in American industry because it is unable to meet the competition of cheap labor products from abroad, it is clear that we have neglected opportunities at home for increase of trade much nearer and more definite than the vague prospects of increasing our foreign trade by increasing our foreign purchases, thus displacing more of the product of American industry. An employed American wage earner is worth more as a trade prospect than a hundred wage earners in Japan, Belgium or Czechoslovakia, first, because he is able to buy comforts and luxuries as well as necessities and the foreign workman is living near the starvation border; second, the home wage earner as a customer is a bird in the hand while the foreign customer is one in the bush.

It is natural that the international banker who makes his earnings as a toll-taker in commerce, finds better opportunities for profit in foreign than in home commercial transactions, and it is natural also that the mouthpieces of these international financiers should talk soulfully about our duty to the world, our obligation to be unselfish to our relationships with other nations, and the beauty of sacrifice in opening our standards of wages and living to free and destructive competition with the living and wage standards of foreign lands. It is natural, too, that the American international industrialists who have 2,000 manufacturing plants abroad in cheap labor markets, and the bankers who have made huge foreign loans and bought vast quantities of foreign securities, should wish to have their investments made good at the expense of the American people. It is natural that they should keep going a tremendous propaganda trying to persuade the American people to impoverish themselves to enrich foreigners and enable our international industrialists to earn profits on the operation of factories in which foreign cheap labor is exploited. And it is perhaps not surprising that many Americans have fallen for this clever propaganda.

The Western farmers and the independent industrialists and merchandisers of the country may well wonder, when it is revealed that the international bankers and industrialists are so unanimously against the tariff and Wall street and its organs are a unit against the new measure, whether they are in company which intends them any good. The world-wide hullabaloo against the new tariff law has been bought and paid for by the international financial interests which are on the job of trying to bring wage and living standards throughout the world to a common level, which for the American farmer and wage earner means a lower level. "The removal of trade barriers," and the "creation of equality of economic opportunity among nations" was the joker in the League of Nations covenant, which accounts for the tremendous pressure brought upon the American people to involve them in the European economic and political system. Having failed in putting the league over, the same internationalist elements have been trying to accomplish their purpose through economic processes. The unprecedentedly bitter fight on any increase in tariff rates was only one phase of this struggle.

THE INVALID ROSE.

I have an invalid rose,
Pale, delicate and pink,
And when the cold wind blows
Plainly its petals shrink.

Neighbors admire the strong
Red roses blossoming by,
And say, as they pass along,
"The little one soon will die."

They favor the hardy stock
Aglow with its crimson wealth,
Which tempest and storm can mock
With the arrogance of health.

But my favorite rose is that pale,
Poor, delicate bush near by
Which, if my care should fail,
With the first harsh blast would die.

When You Kill the Coyotes, the Rodents Multiply.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN people interfere with nature, they invite trouble.

That is so obviously true that even the untaught should know it, yet most of mankind's troubles are caused by disregarding it.

Australia imported one animal to destroy another and the second became a worse pest than the first.

Hawaii imported the mongoose to kill rats and the little creature from India thrived so well in the absence of its natural enemies that it became a pest in turn and now threatens to rob the islands of birds.

Plant pests that did comparatively little damage in Europe or Asia threatened to destroy crops when brought to America.

In their native land they were held in check by natural enemies, while in America they were free to multiply undisturbed.

To interfere with the scheme of nature is to invite disaster—physical or moral or economic.

Nature's plan requires men to win mates and establish them in homes where they can nurture children in safety while the men are abroad in search of meat.

Moderns may call it a foolish and unfair plan, out of harmony with the new doctrine of sex equality, but it is nature's plan and those who violate it must pay the price.

Millions of women are doing man's work now, in cheerful defiance of nature, and their rebellion is destroying the home.

Every girl who holds a job deprives a man of work and thus deprives herself of a mate, for a man must have a job if he is to be some woman's provider.

Every married woman who gets a job to earn pin money or escape boredom increases the labor supply and thus decreases the earning capacity of her mate.

What is worse, the woman worker has no time to enjoy a home and is content to live in a cramped apartment meagerly furnished.

The result is decreased consumption of the thousand articles needed in home making and a general slowing up of production that throws more men out of jobs.

Finally there is the inevitable decay of normal home life and the moral degeneration of youth set free of wholesome restraints.

You can disregard nature when you will, but you can't do it without gathering blisters.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE PEEWEE GOLF CRAZE.

All important street corners in the United States not occupied by gas stations, radio supply huts and cigar stores are now being taken over for tabloid golf courses. This new game, putting an eighteen-hole golf course on a 100-foot lot, has swept the country as has nothing since the crossword puzzle and Spanish influenza.

* * * *

Some unknown genius decided that the trouble with orthodox golf was that it required hiking.

* * * *

The thought that what America needed was golf courses where the public could get everything golf afforded except sore heels, arguments with dumb caddies and a constant bombardment from the foursome behind. And the results have shown that he was right.

* * * *

There are in some communities two and three peewee golf courses to a block. They have been a great boon to undeveloped real estate. The immediate popularity of the demitasse golf course has puzzled some people, but the explanation is simple—walking is practically abolished.

* * * *

When a beginner takes up Tom Thumb golf he knows that he can go ahead without buying $2,000 worth of stock and that it is okay for him to play without first producing three character testimonials and a check for $150 for six months' dues.

* * * *

Another big appeal of tabloid golf rests in the fact it can be played without a wardrobe, a case of Scotch and a bag of matched clubs. The old blue business suit is entirely proper for all strokes and nothing can happens to you that will make a cold shower necessary.

* * * *

If the fellow behind you drives a ball into the small of your back he will be close enough for you to recognize him without appealing to the house committee for help.

* * * *

On these miniature links nobody has to walk 6 miles before he can decide whether he likes the course. Every hole is visible from the first tee. Customers can take 'em or leave 'em. You're a member of the club for one round only, and can't be suspended for not replacing divots.

* * * *

The lost golf ball becomes a thing of the past. The proprietor supplies them, anyhow, and if one goes astray all you do is notify the management. That's the answer to a duffer's prayer.

* * * *

More power to the tabloid links! You can play them all your life and never get a letter notifying you of a $30 assessment.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Great Falls Power Would Reduce Street Car Fares and Electric Light Bills—"Scenic Beauty" Enthusiasts in the Minority.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The increase of fare on street car lines is a clinching argument in favor of using the waters of the Great Falls as a power producer. If the power there that is now going to waste were utilized the operating expense of the car lines would be so greatly lessened that they could return to the old fare—six tokens for a quarter. The street cars are mainly used by wage earners, and because of the failure to use a power given by nature those wage earners are compelled to pay an annual tribute of a half million dollars to the car lines.

Savings in street car fares are not the only savings the people would reap if that power were utilized. Electricity for household use would be reduced in cost to the consumer at least one third, thus effecting a large amount annually saved to the people. The cost of street lighting would be cut in a like amount. In short the saving to Washington and to its people would reach several million dollars.

There has been, and still is, a cry, "Save the Falls for their scenic beauty." This cry comes from a very few, compared to the total population. Out of the total population not ten in one hundred have ever seen the Falls. Of the ten, not more than three have ever made more than one visit, and of the three two care nothing for the scenic beauty.

I have talked with many of the citizens, and feel sure that not 500 would vote to save the Falls. The question then is, shall the great mass of the people be compelled to pay large sums for car fares and electric lights, that a few hundred can enjoy "the scenic beauty," which would be really enhanced by creation of a large lake? CHAS. J. BROWN.

Internationalist Americans Worse Than Communists—Ramsay MacDonald's Dream.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am in full accord with your remarks on "Communist Intrigue," although I can not agree that there is as much danger to American institutions from that source as some seem to think.

According to the way I size it up the high-brows and their followers who stand up for American entanglement in Old World affairs are far more dangereous to our institutions. I know that they are well-meaning and overflowing with love for the human race, and I would join them quick enough if I thought there was any chance that the internationalism of which they appear so proud would result in a genuine Christian United States of the World in anywhere from ten to one hundred years

But what I see as the outcome of their visionary propaganda is something else.

In a press dispatch the other day we were told that, when the news reached the House of Commons that the Senate had ratified the London Naval Treaty, Ramsey MacDonald exclaimed, "I am tremendously pleased. This puts America in the place she is out to occupy."

Our American internationalists may think they know the place America "is out to occupy," but as far as I can judge, it looks like anybody's guess. Considering that his diplomatic triumph is one of the greatest in history, Minister MacDonald's glow of satisfaction must be intoxicating, and the artless words just quoted may indicate that he has dreams of his own as to our proper place in Europe.

Maybe he feels that he is in a fair way to offset Briand's United States of Europe with the United States of the English-Speaking people.

FORMER CANADIAN

Old Street Car Patron Comments on Increased Fare.

To the Editor of The Post.—Sir: Whether the figures of our street car companies lie I am not expert enough to even guess, but I really don't see why we should make such a fuss over the 10-cent fare. It's not near as bad as it looks.

When the fare was 8 cents I was in the habit of buying 15 tokens for $1 when I didn't buy six for 40 cents. At that rate each token cost six and four-sixths cents, or two-sixths less than seven.

At the present rate of four tokens for 30 cents, if you don't foolishly squander 10 cents for a ride, each fare will cost three-sixths of a cent more than seven cents.

So you see the difference between the new and the old fare will be a little less than one cent—five-sixths of a cent, to be exact.

We old car patrons will never again get full satisfaction out of a street car ride until we get back the good old six rides for a quarter, and yet I don't think this increase in the fare is enough to make a great kick about.

Now, if the companies will compel their motormen to quit making those spine-dislocating jolts in which they so freely indulge of late, grant us free universal transfers, and, except during the rush hours morning and evening, so schedule their cars that there will ordinarily be a seat for every token, I think we will be getting several times more than the worth of our fraction of a penny.

Roumanian Minister Corrects Erroneous Dispatch From Bucharest.

To the Editor of The Post.—Sir: In your issue of July 22 there appears a telegram from Bucharest stating that an attempt was made on the life of "Constantin Angelescu, undersecretary of the interior and former Minister to Washington."

Evidently, your correspondent has made a confusion of names, the present undersecretary of state for the interior having no connection with Dr. C. Angelescu, who was the first Roumanian Minister in Washington. The latter is a member of the Liberal party, now in the opposition, and does not hold any government office. GEORGE BONESCO.

Italian Envoy To Leave for Visit Abroad

Ambassador Will Sail on Saturday to Eternal City.

THE Italian Ambassador, Noble Giacomo de Martino, will sail on Saturday aboard the Roma for Europe. He will go immediately to Rome where he will join Donna Antonietta. The Ambassador will return to Washington in about two months, and will probably be accompanied by the Ambassadress.

Count Marchetti, counselor of embassy, will be charge d'affaires during the absence of the Ambassador. The Naval Attache of the Embassy, Capt. Luigi Notarbartolo dei Duchi di Villarosa, left last week for two months' leave in Italy with his family.

The First Secretary of Embassy, Count Guido Roncalli di Montorio, who left about three weeks ago for Italy, was married on Saturday in Rome to Donna Antonietta Conestabile dell Staffa, and will return to Washington about August 1 with his bride. The count came to Washington in the early spring, and just as Washington debutantes and their older sisters were beginning to take an interest in the new bachelor his engagement, which had been announced in Rome before he came to this country, was made known here.

Count Roncalli has been living in the studio apartments on Fifteenth street, which are the homes of many of the younger diplomats, having taken over the suite of his predecessor, Signor Leonardo Vitetti. In this charming apartment the Count and Countess Roncalli will probably make their home until further plans can be made.

U. S. Minister Feted on Eve Of Departure

Mr. William Dawson Is En Route to New Post in Ecuador.

The newly appointed Minister to Ecuador, Mr. William Dawson, sailed at noon yesterday on the Grace Line steamship Santa Elisa for Quito. Mrs. Dawson sailed with him. The minister was the guest of honor on Tuesday at a luncheon at India House, 1 Hanover Square, given by the Pan-American Society. Senor P. P. Equez Baquerizo, consul general for Ecuador in New York, gave bon voyage expressions in behalf of the club and messages were read from Dr. Homero Viteri, Minister of Ecuador, and Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union.

Mr. Dawson, who was born in Minnesota, and was graduated from the university there, entered the foreign service in 1908 as a deputy consul to St. Petersburg, now Leningrad. He has served at Barcelona and at Frankfort as consul and went to Rosarios, Argentina, in 1913. After a few years in South America, where he lived also at Montevideo, Mr. Dawson was assigned to the European service at Danzig, later being transferred to Munich, after which he was appointed consul general at large. In 1924 he was assigned as consul general, attached to the State Department at Washington. Before appointment to Quito, Mr. Dawson was consul general in Mexico City.

Thousands of Dollars Saved in a Few Months

OLD MATTRESSES made new—just as buoyant—as clean (inside and out) as the day you bought them. That was our guarantee. Washington people read our offer. Tried us—hundreds of them. In came mattresses from homes, schools, hotels. Back they went, the same day—remade.

The only part of their old mattresses returned was the inside hair or felt, and that had been sterilized—cleaned—re-felted and combed—made as buoyant as when new.

Women were delighted. Poor sleepers slept as they had not slept in years. No complaints—just enthusiastic customers. People sent in their box springs and pillows, too. Many, needing additional bedding, bought new mattresses, box springs, pillows at low factory prices.

Washington people saved thousands of dollars. Instead of paying $25 to $40 for a new mattress, they secured new ones for $4 to $9. Extra money for savings bank, clothes, vacation, house furnishings. Better health because of sound sleep on buoyant germ-free bedding.

May we call for your mattress today? Phone National 9410. Mattresses, box springs and pillows renovated or made to order at factory prices.

MEEHAN STATEMENT OPTIMISTIC IN TONE

Stock Exchange Member Recommends Buying of Shares Now.

BASIC STABILITY IS SEEN

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

One of the most optimistic statements regarding prospects for American business yet given out in the financial district was made yesterday by M. J. Meehan & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, with local offices. It reads:

"We believe in the future of the United States; in the ability and financial courage of its industrial leaders; that securities of many of our great corporations are selling at levels which do not truly reflect the assets of these corporations, their earning power and their future possibilities.

"For these reasons, we believe that the present market offers many excellent opportunities for the prudent investor to secure stocks of these corporations at attractive levels, and we recommend the purchase of such stocks now."

Telephone Revenue Data.

Telephone operating revenues for the month of June were $724,132, with operating expenses of $523,330, the report of operations of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. to the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia shows. Net revenues after deducting taxes and uncollectible were $148,728.

The company's operating revenues for the six months ended June 30 amounted to $4,339,878. Operating expenses for this period were $3,179,389, making net revenues after deducting taxes and uncollectible $855,709. Operating revenues for the first six months of 1929 were $4,196,897, with expenses of $3,045,615, making net revenues after deducting taxes and uncollectible $846,339.

Taxes for June amounted to $48,347, which was an increase of $5,439 over the same month last year.

Capital expenditures for new plant and equipment during the six months ended June 30 were $2,077,347. Gross retirements during this period were $2,217,332, the retirements exceeding the additions by $139,985. Net additions to plant for the twelve months ended June 30 amounted to $2,188,909.

On June 30 Washington was served by 161,961 telephones, an increase of 3,048 since January 1. Telephone users made about 16,700,000 calls during the month.

North American Co. Reports.

The consolidated income statement of the North American Co., holding company for the Washington Railway & Electric and Potomac Electric Power Cos., for the twelve months ended June 30, shows $28,680,639.59 for common stock after all operating expenses, interest charges, depreciation and all other reserves and preferred dividends.

These earnings are an increase of 12.71 per cent over those for the twelve months ended June 30, 1929, and are equal to $5.06 a share on the average of shares of common stock outstanding during the twelve months ended June 30, 1930, compared with $5.01 per share on the average number outstanding in the preceding period.

On June 12, the North American interests in its California subsidiaries were sold to Pacific Gas & Electric Co. in consideration for common stock of that company. Therefore earnings of those properties from June 12 to June 30, have been excluded from the statement and in lieu thereof, is included the proportion of actual dividend only on such common stock applicable to that period. Gross earnings of the other company and its undistributed net earnings applicable to the North American interest in the common stock of that company have not been included.

Net profits of American Ice Co. and subsidiaries in June, after interest, but before depreciation and Federal taxes, were $914,382. This compares with $906,799 in 1929 and with $701,403 in 1928.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, July 23 (A.P.).—After an almost straight-away upturn of about 12 cents a bushel from recent low prices, the corn market today hesitated and lost poise. Forecasts of showers, indicating a halt in widespread crop damage from heat and drought, had much to do with bringing about a selling movement that was also inspired by strenuous efforts which many traders made to grab profits while the grabbing was good. Tending to stiffen prices again, however, at the last was an official estimate that the corn crop of Iowa, the largest corn-producing State of the Union, has been curtailed 45,000,000 bushels by drought and excessive heat of the last two weeks.

Closing quotations on corn were irregular, ranging from ⅜ cent setback to ¼ cent gain, compared with yesterday's finish, and about 1½ cents under today's top figures. Wheat closed nervous, ¼-¾ cent net lower, with oats ⅜ cent off to ⅜ cent up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2 cents.

So far, the drought in Iowa has been broken in only four or five counties of the State, and the Government's weekly report today covering all States said generous rains are now needed nearly everywhere. It was added that the corn crop of the United States as a whole is at a critical stage, with further heavy damage certain in numerous places unless good rains come soon. Today's highest prices were reached after this report was out, and before the sensational extent of Iowa damage was generally known here.

A notable factor in turning the corn market backward from extreme price bulges today was news of further rains in the Southwest and, especially, word of a cloudburst at Hutchinson, Kans. There was also talk current that the corn market had become overbought for at least the time being, and that a reaction was logical. On the other hand, an illustration of the severity of the drought was news that on account of the resulting low stage of the Mississippi River large grain shipments intended to go by water from St. Louis to New Orleans have been ordered sent all rail.

Continued heavy receipts of newly harvested domestic wheat acted as a weight on the wheat market, and at times formed more than a counterbalance for liberal export business. Today's European purchases of North American wheat were estimated at 1,500,000 bushels, and it was figured that since July 1 the total is fully 50,000,000 bushels, about 20,000,000 bushels of which has been bread wheat from the United States. Suggestions were also heard today that Europe's wheat crop this season is likely to be 350,000,000 bushels less than last year. Oats price fluctuations were governed by the action of corn.

Provisions were responsive to firmness of the hog market.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL.

STARS of the screen who slip or are tumbled from the heights to make way for newer and perhaps younger faces, so far as the public is able to judge, surrender calmly.

Their calmness, however, is only on that particuladr surface visible to those detached from the intimate concerns of the studios and the lots. In addition to the unpleasantness of losing their robust incomes, the consciousness that some one, or several, deems their appearance, or their popularity, or both, something less than they have always considered it, must be a pretty stiff shock to that old pride.

A player who finds himself without a contract, after several years of stardom, never immediately gives up. A majority of them drift slowly toward eventual oblivion via the cheap producing companies, operating on shoestrings, or less, and kiting from picture to picture. Others snap into the old stride and step out in front all over again.

Bebe Daniels, packing them in at the RKO-Keith Theater this week in "Lawful Larceny," got her second lease on life in the films after the studio with which she had long been associated in a stellar capacity informed her her services were no longer needed. She went elsewhere—and probably told her erstwhile employer to do likewise—and now look at her!

Lila Lee was away from pictures for many months. She returned to the fold a year and a half ago and has since been in seventeen successful pictures—almost one a month—up to the time of her recent physical collapse.

The classic example of all is Warner Baxter. He gave camera acting up as a bad job—for him—and then changed his mind and decided to try it again. The second time, it took.

All this, you may be sure, is the height of something or other!

In compliance with the request embodied in a recent note from A. B., inspired, I suspect, by the recent cannonading occasioned by the crooners, I am able to report, through the courtesy of Manager Mochary, newly appointed major domo of the Earle Theater, that the personnel of Will Osborne's orchestra, in addition, of course, to Mr. Osborne, is as follows: piano, Paul Demmiker; bass, Albert Weber; saxophone and violin, Gus Speck; saxophone and piano, Jack Towne; saxophone and violin, Jack Linton; violins, Ross Dickson and Elliott Russell; guitar and bass, George Odell, and percussions, James Wilson.

Avowing feverish interest in Prof. Osborne and his men, A. B., nevertheless, adds a postscript, "Don't dare to say naughty things about Rudy again."

Beg pardon, but didn't you read where I said he was good to his ma?

And the same mail brought this:

"I am a reader of your column and it distressed me beyond description when you announced recently that you absolutely discredited the handsome, talented, good-natured young leader of the Fox orchestra as to some one requesting that they play 'After the Ball.' You seemed to think there was no one living now who would recognize it, much less request it."

My correspondent then not only admits that it was she who requested the inclusion of the Charles K. Harris gem of 1893 in a recent medley overture of request numbers, but quotes the chorus to prove how perfectly she remembers it and how attached she is to the imperishable waltz. Not only that, but her closing paragraph embodies a bit of flattery to which I can not but succumb with a dull and heavy thud:

"What memories this brings back to us who, dear Nelson, may I say not so old we do not sympathize with your extreme youth (sic) and jazz. On with the ball! Conductor Leon Brusiloff, you are vindicated as a man of truth."

(Signed) EDNA DUBOIS.

What memories, indeed! And just to think, I fatuously imagined I was the only one who could hark back to the World's Fair summer in Chicago, where "After the Ball" got its start and so did I!

Dick Leibert, a neighbor whose organlogues are riots at the Palace Theater, stopped by the house the other evening while I was out hosing the heat off the grass to say that his engagement as guest organist will positively come to an end July 31. Dick's return to the local console has been terminated once or twice before, only to be extended at the last minute by the New York home office of Loew, Inc. This time the farewell bids fair to stick since Mrs. Leibert writes him from Pittsburgh that the screen there is announcing his return to his home keyboard the first week in August.

His good-bye creation will be a musical novelette bearing the title of "Dad's Day."

Harry E. Lohmeyer, who has served the Crandall, Stanley-Crandall, and Warner interests as manager of the Avenue Grand, Tivoli, and Earle theaters in Washington and the Stanley in Baltimore, has again taken up his duties as manager of the Tivoli, Washington's ace residential house. A host of old friends are welcoming him home.

Corbin Sheild, manager of the RKO-Keith Theater, having got the new refrigeration plant in perfect working order, is taking a week off to go out in the broiling sun to fish and swim! Yeah, the man's crazy!

But aren't we all?

General Motors' Profits Climbing

$1.17 Dividend Per Common Share Reported for Second Quarter.

New York, July 23 (A.P.).—Conspicuous among the second quarter earnings reports issued today was that of General Motors Corporation, which disclosed earnings of $1.17 per common share during the period, against 98 cents for the previous quarter and $2.01 for the second quarter last year.

In addition to its operating profits, General Motors reported a nonoperating and nonrecurring profit from the sale of General Motors common to the General Motors Management Corporation, equivalent to 17 cents per share, which brought the total net for the second quarter to $1.34 per common share. Alfred P. Sloan, jr., said that cash, United States Government and other marketable securities as of June 30, amounted to $175,693,782, compared with $127,351,530 December 31, last. Net working capital June 30, totaled $290,577,234, compared with $251,287,782 December 31. Second quarter net earnings totaled $53,386,768, compared with $39,949,323 for the like period last year. Including the nonoperating profit, the total net was $60,963,841. Net for the six months ended June 30 was $98,355,355, equal to $2.15 per share, against $151,860,310, or $3.38 a share for the first half last year. Including the nonoperating profit, net for the first half this year was equal to $2.32 a share.

Mr. Sloan said "the unfavorable comparison with the previous year was a direct reflection "of the current economic conditions prevailing not only in the United States, but in practically all other markets of the world that normally are important factors in the absorption of General Motors products."

Heads of District Visit Gallinger

Tour Is First in Series of Inspections Planned for City Units.

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, president of the Board of Commissioners, with immediate supervision over the welfare and health departments of the municipal government, yesterday took his colleagues, Gen. Herbert B. Crosby and Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, on an inspection of Gallinger Municipal Hospital.

Under pressure to complete the District estimates for the next fiscal year, the new commissioners have not gathered the first hand information about the various municipal agencies they had planned to, but now that the estimates have been completed they intend to see things for themselves.

Gen. Crosby plans to keep in closer personal contact with the various units of the Police and Fire Departments and frequent and irregular inspection of various fire houses and police stations are planned.

Good-Bye to "Good Buys"

Without a moment's regret, investors of today have cheerfully scrapped the good old grapevine telegraph of finance—which used to whisper to them mystic words about a stock that was a "sure thing buy"—muffled sales talk on giant, undeveloped holdings, a new process that would "make millions" for the company (if it worked)—and all the new fol-de-rol of frenzied investment . . .

Instead, investors the country over are demanding FACTS—proof over a period of years, the bad years as well as the good, that the security they are buying will yield them an unfailing return—despite commodity price changes, market depressions, brokers' loans, and all the other gyrations that affect a Wall Street stock . . .

And that is why so many investors are choosing investments such as the 6% First Mortgage Notes sold through the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Company—securities which have proved their steady, unfailing earning power, the unshakable safety of their principal, since the first of these Notes was issued in April, 1869.

HIDE IN THE DARK - - -

By FRANCES NOYES HART
Author of "The Bellamy Trial"

Time—All Hallows Eve.
Place—Lady Court, an old manor house south of Washington.
Cast of Characters:
Lindy Marsden, lonely, lovely, a dark-eyed romanticist, and mistress of Lady Court.
Doug King, hilarious and jovial, the life of every party and the founder of the March Hares.
Neil Sheridan, sleek, dark, highly successful in his career as a lawyer and husband of Trudi, wise, witty and chic, with all the ease of manner of a grand duchess and the lack of manners of a fishwife.
Chatty Ross, small, gay, blindly adoring wife of Tom Ross, the least successful man in the room, shabby and sensitive among his wealthy friends.
Hanna Dart, a gentle lady, immaculately beautiful, whose reserve masks a deep affection for her husband.
Gavin Dart, a rather tired and immensely successful business man of 50, with shrewd, dark eyes and steel gray hair.
Ray Hardy, the youngest member of the party, not long married and overwhelmingly in love with Joel Hardy, her charming and irrepressible husband, who has not grown five minutes older in the last ten years.
Jill Leighton, graceful and gracious, stepsister of that legendary Sunny, the beloved girl whose strange death ten years ago still lay like a shadow over the gay group.
Larry Redmond, an agreeable young banker who can not understand why Jill hates him.
Kit Baird, wanderer and adventurer in strange lands, who in his casual way does every romantic thing magnificently well.

THE STORY THUS FAR:
Thirteen gay revelers, calling themselves the March Hares, have gathered on Hallowe'en at Lady Court, an old manor house.
NOW CONTINUE THE STORY.

The Party Progresses.

"This is the life, children—this undubitably is the life!" declared Doug King. "There's where we make every party that we ever had before seem like a rehearsal for this one. How come the gorgeous inspiration, Lindy?" he inquired.

"Thank Trudi. She ran into Kit at a delightful little haunt of hers called the Silver Stallion in New York last week, and wrote me that she thought we ought to celebrate the prodigal's return properly. So here we are!"

"Did you used to come down here often?" inquired Ray over the jubilant clamor. "All of you, I mean? It must seem too wonderful to be back."

"Oh, it does!" cried Chatty Ross exultantly. "We came down dozens of times, didn't we, Lindy? In 1916 and '17 we did it over every holiday, and even in 1918 the men came up from Quantico and Mead and Fort Myer for over New Years——"

The Last Party.

"That was the last party," said Lindy, sipping the golden liquid as fastidiously as though it were Chateau Yquem. "No one's been in it since then, but Sam—he lights the fires now and then during the winter to keep the whole thing from molding away.

"Don't you ever come down yourself" inquired Gavin Dart.

"No, not ever." She put down her glass softly. Of course, the house has been in the family nearly 200 years, but it's been 50 since any of us have really lived in it. Too far from either Washington or Baltimore, you see. And the roads really are nightmares!

"You flatter them," remarked Kit Baird dryly. "Those last 6 miles made the river beds that I used to ride in France seem like the Lincoln highway. That motor bike of mine was crying like a child all that last stretch from the creek."

"Did you go in for dispatch riding in France, too?" asked Ray. "I thought Joel said Poland——"

"I said he broke his leg in Poland, Ray," added Joel mildly, "never does listen to more than one word out of every three that I say. Sometimes its the right one and sometimes it isn't."

"Do you know he says that you're the only one that he wrote to in ten years, Joel?"

"Well, I wasn't exactly stupefied with pride over the letter," Joel grinned reminiscently from the settee. "Sixteen words telling me that he and his leg were broke as hell in Warsaw, and asking me to sell 300 shares of oil stock he'd left with me. He's a swell correspondent.

"Have you been in Poland ever since, Kit?"

"No, lady—giving you a civil answer to a civil question, I have not been in Poland ever since."

Baird's Travels.

"Well, then, where have you been?"

"Ah, where haven't I? If you've got an atlas around I'll show you a place in Peru that I didn't come within 200 miles of—and there was another one near Patras and a mining camp somewhere in Nevada. Outside of those, I think that I can truthfully say that I've hit them all. Quite a gypsy in my quiet way."

"And that," said Joel, hardly admiringly, "is about all the information you're going to get out of young Mr. Baird during your lifetime, my child."

"Shake you up another, Trudi, my poppet?" demanded Doug King, eying Trudi's empty glass benevolently.

"No. Two's enough for any girl that knows her mind—or maybe it's three——"

Hanna Dart stirred in the corner of the sofa, smiled her ineffable smile, and extended the still-brimming glass that she had politely accepted when it was proffered her and even more politely touched with her lips.

"Here, Gavin, give her this—it's too delicious. If only I wasn't on this stupid regime——"

Off for Firewood.

"Same stupid regime you've been on since you were 16, isn't it?" inquired Trudi over the edge of the glass. "No smoking, no drinking, no swearing, bed at 10 and breakfast at 8—regime of being a good little girl, eh, what?"

"Oh, Trudi, you do make it sound loathsome!"

"You're sweet, Hanna. I think Gavin's rather sweet, too, not to change you a bit." She swung lightly off the edge of the table on which she had perched, demanding blithely, "Are you brave lads going to do anything about hauling in the Yule log, or do you think it's more fun standing around and rattling an empty cocktail shaker?"

"How about it, boys? Shall we give these little hothouse flowers a great big fire for an All-Halloween present?"

Doug's ruddy countenance beamed invitingly on the somewhat less responsive visages of his comrades, who, under his insistent glow, reluctantly relinquished glasses and shrugged themselves into abandoned coats and mufflers with anticipatory groans.

"Doug, for the love of Labrador, close that door before we all get blown up the chimney!" commented Trudi, despairingly.

"The quickest way is down through the cedars behind the little graveyard," called Lindy after the retreating figures. "Do hurry—it really is dreadful in here."

"Through the cedars behind the little graveyard," repeated Ray in an awe-stricken undertone. "I shall die before I get out of this place. A graveyard! What in heaven's name do you do with a graveyard?"

A Private Graveyard.

"The usual thing," said Lindy, gently. "Though there haven't been any Pallisers buried there for close on a hundred years. Girls, how about getting some of these bags and hampers straightened out? We can put them at the foot of the stairs for the men to carry up; it really is getting late."

Trudi, staggering under a briefcase, a blanket roll and something that looked like the offspring of a wardrobe trunk and a jewel case, remarked sepulchrally over her shoulder, in the direction of the pallid Ray:

"Girl, you ain't heard nuffin'. Wait till Lindsy tells you about the old boy who inaugurated the graveyard."

"Wh-what happened to him?"

"Trudi, you're spoiling everything. It's despicable to tell a murder story with the lights on."

"Murder!" echoed Ray, hollowly. "Here? You're making up."

Trudi, halfway to the hall, uttered a sinister laugh.

"Ha! Wait a bit—that's all I say—wait a bit. In the meantime you might give a hand before you pass into a decline. Thanks a lot—ouf! Shall we start setting the tables, Lindy? Are we going to eat in here?"

"Yes—card tables in front of the fire, don't you say? Just picnic tonight, I thought, because it's so late. Most of the things to eat are in those hampers, and I suppose the silver and china are still in the lacquer cabinet—no, the right-hand one. Now, where in the world did we leave those card-tables?"

"I remember!" cried Chatty triumphantly. "In the closet back of the loveseat. Kit and I folded them up the very last thing. Is it locked, Lindy?"

"Heavens, no; nothing's locked. It may stick a little, though—just give it a hard push."

The hard push precipitated the energetic Chatty somewhat abruptly into the already crowded closet, but her voice rose triumphantly from its depths.

Out of a Closet.

"Oh, there's everything. The tables and the graphophone and the floor cushions—and Kit's Spanish guitar and the ping pong rackets—and that terrible old cap of Sherry's and both the targets. Jill, come and help—I can't wiggle these tables out all alone."

Jill, who had been sitting so still in the far corner of the sofa, slipped readily to her feet and the rescue.

"Twist them sideways. Never mind the hampers now, Trudi, let's get these set up. Look out, Chatty—there goes the graphophone!"

"D'you think it's broken anything?" inquired Chatty, placing it gently on a stand, all contrite solicitude. "Oh, look—it's still got a record on it. Now, why that didn't smash! Look, it winds all right . . . and it plays all right, too, thank heaven! Listen to that—does it make you feel 152, or doesn't it? 'Underneath the Stars'—I wonder how many hundred miles we danced to that."

Jill Leighton, her face bent over the recalcitrant catches of the card-table, pushed it abruptly from her, and crossed the room toward the hall, saying without turning her head:

"Which room am I having, Lindy? There's something I was to get——"

"Journey's End, darling; need any help?"

"Thanks, no. I won't be a minute."

Chatty, following the progress of the slight figure across the hall with stricken eyes, murmured.

"Oh, Lindy, I'm so frightfully sorry. Honestly and truly, I forgot—honestly I did . . ."

"Of course you did, darling. Never mind; just go on with the tables. She'll be back in a minute——"

Chatty made a panic-stricken gesture in the direction of the little whirling disc, that, oblivious of time and memory, was spinning out its old tale of magic and romance and stars on a summer night.

Out of the Past.

"Underneath the Stars," sang the violins forever young and unwearied. "Underneath the silver——"

"Don't turn it off, you little dumbbell," adjured Trudi, flinging a consoling arm about the culprit's shoulders. "It'll make her much more comfortable if we pretend not to notice anything. Just forget it—after all, ten years is ten years."

"I'd like awfully to be tactful and discreet and dignified," remarked Ray Hardy wistfully over the pile of floor cushions that she was distributing in a semicircle. "I know it's none of my business and that I ought to keep my mouth shut and my nose out of it, and that I haven't any finer feelings, but I'll lie right down here and die if somebody doesn't tell me what it is we're to pretend not to notice and to forget because ten years is ten years."

Known as "Sunny."

Lindy Marsden, her arms full of silver and china, said gently. "We really are dreadfully rude, but I do think it's rather a compliment, because it means that we can't remember that you don't know as much about us as we know ourselves. It isn't half as mysterious as it sounds. 'Underneath the Stars' was Sunny's favorite tune, that's all; she put it on the phonograph herself on the last party that we were out here."

"I remember," said Hanna. "I remember perfectly. It was out in the hall; she and Doug were dancing together, and Kit came out and cut it off—and Doug pretended to be furious. It must have gone on right from where it stopped then; Jill must have remembered, too, poor child. It is rather dreadful, you know. There, thank heaven it's stopping."

"Sunny?" repeated Ray, her eyes still bright with unanswered questions. "Oh, that was Jill Leighton's sister, Sylvia, wasn't it? The one that died?"

"The one that died. Hanna, if you'll fix the china, I'll tend to the glasses. We can use that long table against the wall as a sort of buffet and just stack the plates and the silver on it."

"Well, but how did she die?" inquired Ray, humbly but firmly. "She was awfully young, wasn't she?"

"Nineteen," said Lindy. "My age. She was my roommate at school, you know—she was drowned."

"Drowned? Here in Washington?"

"Drowned here in Washington."

By ROBERT D. HEINL

NOT only talking optimism but backing it with good hard dollars by adding 20,000 employes to his pay roll at Camden, E. E. Shumaker, president of the RCA-Victor Co., declares he does not think there is anything fundamentally wrong with business at present, except loss of confidence.

"Until this confidence is restored business will stagnate," Mr. Shumaker continues. "Industry must take the lead. Certainly, if industry does not have confidence and does not believe the depression is at an end, it can not expect the buying public to have confidence and to start spending money.

"The tremendous and forward looking plans that we are making in Camden, and the employment of thousands of people are definite proofs of our confidence in the immediate future."

When the new plant at Camden gets into full swing it will manufacture 9,000 complete radio sets a day—enough, if stood side by side in a line, to extend from the White House to the Capitol and back, with a sufficient number to again reach to the Capitol. This many radio sets to be turned out every day, mind you.

Another indication of confidence of leaders in business is that there has been an increase in the advertising billings of $4,000,000 for the first half of the present year of Lord & Thomas and Logan, one of the largest advertising agencies, of which L. Ames Brown, a former Washingtonian, is president. This company, which handles a volume of radio advertising, expects a further substantial increase during the second half.

THE promise made by Amos 'n' Andy that Jack Russell, 6-week-old son of F. M. Russell, of Washington, vice president of the N. B. C., would shortly be the recipient of a "mustache cup" has been kept. A handsome silver cup, engraved "To John Parrish Russell, with the best wishes of Amos 'n' Andy," is now in the baby's possession.

Evidently Calvin Coolidge is changing his mind about the radio. While in the White House he was quoted as saying that it was "a lot of noise." However, in an article in The Post this week, he wrote:

"The radio has done for people of mature years what the schoolhouse has done for the youth in the way of lifting them out of themselves and giving them new ideas."

IN one of the longest independent pickups ever attempted by a local station, WJSV at Mount Vernon Hills, Va., will reach over to Chesapeake Beach, in the adjoining State, to broadcast the dedication by Gov. Ritchie of the new $500,000 southern Maryland boulevard at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Undismayed by the heat wave, the broadcasters have two more premieres scheduled. Lula Vollmer, writer of Southern folk dramas, has prepared a radio serial based upon the adventures of a Southern mountain boy.

Peter Arno comes to the bat with a new series entitled "The Whoops Sisters," based upon his drawings.

Both features will begin Monday night, the former over WRC and the latter from WMAL.

Apparently before they put on the stunt about "Uncle Abe" having his nails manicured, the latter indulged himself in the luxury to see what it was like.

Anyway, after Phillips Lord, who plays "Uncle Abe" left her shop in New York last week, the manicure girl, not knowing the identity of her customer, was heard to say, "Well he's a real rube, all right. He told me he'd never had a manicure in his life."

Jessica Dragonette is away for a three-week vacation.

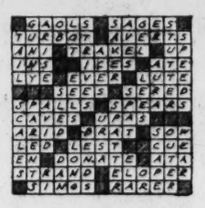
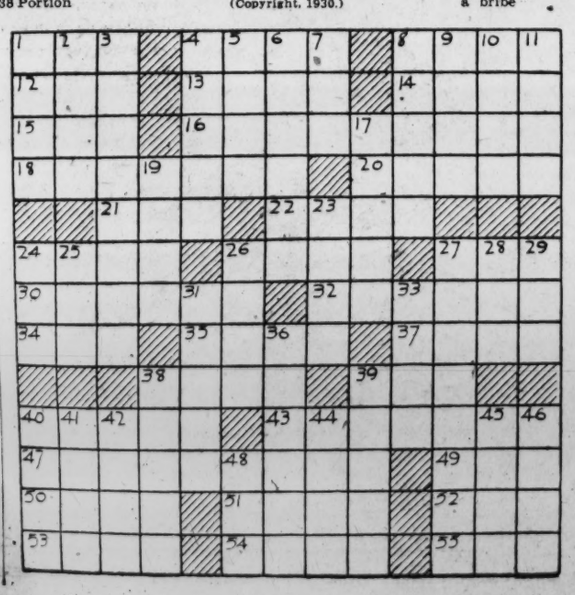
YESTERDAY'S ANSWER.



(Copyright, 1930.)



Jane Interprets the Mode

For fall ensemble with pink crepe de chine dress, and pink wool coat. (Courtesy of Redfern, Paris.)

Paris, July 23.

YOU go along and along, and maybe you think that you have no strain on your eyes, or you wear glasses and think that enough, and all of a sudden something goes wrong and your eyes start to be red and ugly, or have any one of the many things happen to them that happen to eyes.

I just did that my own self, so a word in time to you shouldn't be amiss. And this word is just to remind you that your eyes have a terrific strain on them these days, that they get dirty, and should be washed even as your skin, and that, whether you believe it or not or even think about it, tired, strained eyes cause wrinkles and strain in the face; in other words, make you look older than you have to look!

Let's then make a new kind of a jewel box today—an eye box in which to keep all the things that guard the jewels of your eyes! All handy and all in one place, right there on your dressing table to remind you that your eyes rate a bit of that beauty care every morning and night. In this box, then, which can be lacquer and as decorative as you wish, have a covered jar of boracic acid, small package of absorbent cotton, eye dropper and eye cup, a good prepared wash, of which there are several on the market; a small jar of lash and brow grower, also on the market; a small, firm toothbrush, and all your eye make-up—pencil, lash darekning, upper lid shadows, whatever you use.

And oh, yes, some of those aromatic eye pads that are so reasonable now, which you can buy ready prepared.

And use these things, morning and night for the wash or drops, night for the lash grower, morning and night for the little toothbrush that has been dipped into cold water and brushed across brows and lashes to stimulate them. Save your eyes, and your beauty, with such a simple thing as your eye jewel box!

* * * *

In any Oriental store, those gorgeous Chinese pajama suits! Little top, sleeveless, baggy trousers, and a coolie coat, all painted and batiked, or embroidered. Wouldn't you really like to have one? Sure, they are expensive, but not when all you have to do is send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for an illustrated leaflet that tells you how to make them!

* * * *

Oh-o-o-o, that flattering pink! For early fall, too, it's as smart as it was for summer, and no wonder, when it is so becoming to so many types of loveliness!. Redfern uses it again in the early fall ensemble I have sketched for you today, crepe de chine the dress, and woolen the coat, trimmed with a beige fur collar. No, I don't advocate an ensemble like this for the height of economical buying, but then it wouldn't be so extravagant either, if you think of wearing it for the six or eight remaining summer and warm fall weeks, and the possibility of having it dyed a deeper color for cooler days!

* * * *

You'll always find much of interest in the weekly Dare fashion letter. And you'll always find it in the Sunday Washington Post.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE.

"LEO."

IF July 24 is your birthday, the best hours for you are from 7 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., 3:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. and 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 5:30 a. m. to 6:30 a. m. and 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m.

Astrological influences on this date will awaken your ambitions, and you will long for social and material expansion. Do not shun the friendly advice and warning of a friend. Let the day be one of thought rather than action, and sleep over your ideas.

The child born on this date will be a lover of freedom, and will become fretful, irritable and rebellious under undue restraint. It will like to do one thing at a time, in its own way. It will aim to do, and to be, right.

The prejudices of all your ancestors seem to be brought forth in you, and they blind you to the truth, and many times the beauty of things. Many of your dislikes are only illusions—sad mistakes. You also have acquired the sad habit of boredom, which slams the door of spontaneous enjoyments in your face. You shun people under the false belief that you are a born recluse.

This is far from the truth. You do not have the powers and interests within yourself to give you solitary contentment. You need all the outside stimulation and uplifting you can get. You gain strength and magnetism from human contacts. You must change your present plans and modes of living. Think affiratively, and not negatively! You are a gregareous creature—stick with your herd. You must not expect your sweetheart, your wife, or husband, to be perfect; do not put them on a pedestal!

Successful people born July 24:

Benning Wentworth—First Colonial Governor of New Hampshire.

John M. Clayton—Secretary of State under Fillmore.

William Gillette—Actor.

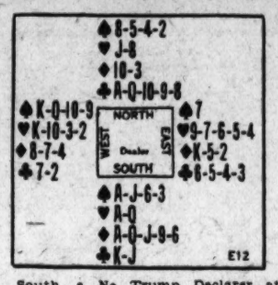
WORK ON BRIDGE

A Well Played Hand.



South, a No Trump Declarer at Auction (his situation would have been the same at Contract), found the above hand interesting when West led the King of Spades and East followed suit with four Spades in each hand, he realized that East had played his only Spade. As West would not be apt to repeat his Spade lead if South ducked, South took the first trick. Then he could have run five Clubs and forced discards, but he needed Diamond leads from dummy.

At trick 2 South's Jack of Clubs was won with dummy's Queen, then the Ten of Diamonds was led and allowed to win when East played small. A second Diamond from dummy, a second Diamond finesse, and then South led the Ace of Diamonds and had the good fortune to clear up the remaining adverse Diamonds which enabled him to cash two more Diamonds.

On South's last three Diamonds North discarded a Heart and two Spades; then at trick 8 dummy's Club Ace overtook South's King and dummy cashed his three long Clubs. South discarded his three Spades, keeping the Ace and Queen of Hearts to play on the last two tricks. This left dummy with the Jack of Hearts and Eight of Spades as his last two cards. When West discarded to trick 11 he was in a dilemma. Up to that time he had held the high Spade and the King and Ten of Hearts, but one of those cards had to go on dummy's last Club. To part wth the high Spade would make dummy's Eight a winner, so the Ten of Hearts had to be discarded and the King bared. Dummy then led the Jack of Hearts and South did not finesse. Declarer knew that East had the good Spade and one Heart which might be the King; the Ten discard on the previous trick looked like it, although the Ten might have been a false card. Not wishing to risk two tricks merely to obtain one extra, Declarer played his Ace and had the good luck to drop the King and consequently took thirteen tricks.

STAUNTON

A MILITARY preparatory school that really prepares a boy, not only to enter college, but with training that equips him to STAY there. Consult reports of Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools (copies in hands of public school superintendents). Note the college success of Staunton graduates. Examine reports for several years and observe our consistent leadership among preparatory schools that are essentially military.

286 graduates now doing successful work at 88 colleges and universities.

Do not misinterpret the term "Honor Military School." IT HAS NO ACADEMIC SIGNIFICANCE. Staunton Military Academy was the first military school from the Potomac to the Rio Grande to receive this War Department rating; for several years the only Honor Military School in the South. An Honor School today, but upon that basis alone we would not solicit or desire your patronage.

PROFIT TAKING CUTS INTO STOCKS' GAINS

Leading Shares Climb 1 to 5 Points Net, Despite Reaction at Close.

RAIL EARNINGS DECLINE

New York, July 23 (A.P.).—The bulls stirred up considerable commotion on the stock market today, but ran into profit taking on an extreme rally of 2 to 8 points, leaving prominent shares, particularly industrials, only 1 to 5 net higher.

Trading remained in professional hands, for so far the public has made little response to suggestions from those brokerage circles which, viewing the business depression as close to the bottom, are recommending a constructive attitude toward the market. Many of the stocks that led the rally were under pool sponsorship and important buying orders from outside were reported as scarce, although some commission houses did say that there had been a little improvement in demand from margin customers.

Sentiment in the market, however, was distinctly bullish. Basing their move on the normal extent of the recent reaction, operators for the advance selected the leading stocks as the draft horses of the rally and pulled many into new high ground for the upturn. Favorites included U. S. Steel, General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, American Can, General Motors, Radio and American Telephone, and with these advancing the remainder of the list was not slow in following.

U. S. Steel Up 2¾ Points.

Flurries of profit-taking passed quickly, and it was not until the late dealings that realizing cut very extensively into the progress. The selling of the last 20 minutes canceled roughly a third of the extreme advance. American Can, for example, which had been lifted nearly 5 points in active trading, closed 3½ higher. United States Steel, after touching 168½, a new high for the recovery, eased back to 167½, where it was up 2⅝. American Telephone lost about 3 points of a maximum gain of 4, and 2-point advances in Radio and General Electric were halved. Westinghouse, up 5 at the top, closed 2¾ higher.

Earnings statements for the second quarter and the first half were again mixed, and contained a sprinkling of favorable returns. General Motors' report, issued after the close, showed $1.17 a share for the quarter on its operating income, compared with 98 cents in the March period and $2.01 for the same quarter of 1929. Nonrecurring income brought the earnings for the recent interval to $1.34, while the total for the half, from all sources, was equivalent to $2.32 on the common. The stock was strong and active all day, closing 1¾ higher, or fractionally under the top.

The Weekly Steel Review said that sentiment, rather than business, had improved. Iron Age reported a growing opinion that "the industrial reaction is at its worst and that the only possible change is for the better." The publication's estimate of ingot output was unchanged at 56 per cent of capacity for the third consecutive week.

Late Fall Upturn Seen.

Steel, another trade paper, said producers were "increasingly looking beyond their present light order books and mediocre price situation to a moderate upturn late this fall," basing their expectaitons on a slowly rising curve in automobile production, a continued brisk demand for structural materials and "a mild, orderly betterment in general business."

The first eight railroads to report for June revealed a 26.7 per cent reduction in net operating income and a 13.4 per cent cut in gross for last month. These losses were about in line with the shrinkages of May.

The outward movement of gold was resumed with the withdrawal of $16,000,000 for shipment. Of this total, $14,000,000 is going to France and the rest to Canada. Little concern is felt over the loss of the metal at this time, and it has had no effect on money rates here. Some of the New York banks believe that the present outgoing movement to Paris, because of the strength of the franc, may conceivably exceed $50,000,000.

Commodity prices were relatively steady. Wheat closed off ¼ to ⅜ on beneficial rains in North Dakota and large receipts. Corn was ¼ cent lower to ⅞ higher. Cotton reacted after slight advances, closing $1.10 to $1.35 a bale lower.

Foreign exchanges were firm and fluctuations narrow.

STOCK OPTION LIST HEADS RISE IN BONDS

Nearly All Groups Display Firmer Tone in Typical Dull Summer Day.

TIME MONEY RATES SAG

New York, July 23 (A.P.).—Bonds displayed a firmer tone in trading on the New York Stock Exchange in a typical midsummer session today. Some response to the easing of time money rates this week was shown by the best-grade issues and United States Governments continued their upward climb at a moderate pace in broadened activity. Increased activity developed in stock privilege bonds, which as a group, finished the day at higher levels.

While the forward movement showed some improvement the sales volume was unaffected continuing about on a par with previous dull days of the week.

Some dealers reduced the loaning rate on six months' time loans to 3 per cent, a quarter of 1 per cent reduction, and followed previous cuts on short maturities. Call money was easy at 2 per cent on the stock exchange with some funds offered in the outside market at 1¼ per cent. The easier tone of time money which followed the action of the Federal Reserve Bank in extending its 1½ per cent bill buying rate to cover 75-day acceptances has been construed as another experiment by the Central Bank in an effort to aid business recovery.

American Telephone Rises.

As a result of the advance in the price of shares for which they are exchangeable, many stock privilege issues were accumulated extensively, with nearly all classes—railroad, utility and miscellaneous—marked upward. Atchison 4½s, International Telephone 4½s, Philadelphia, Reading Coal & Iron 6s and American Telephone 4½s led the advance with gains of about one point. Pathe 7s and Lautaro Nitrate 6s, warrant issues, reacted one point.

Greater interest was displayed in United States Governments, particularly Liberty 3½s, and long-term Treasury issues. Liberty 3½s, Treasury 4s, and Treasury 3⅜s gained about 1-5 of a point and Treasury 3¾s advanced 11-32ds.

Railroads suffered from inactivity, but a firm trend was maintained. Canadian Pacific 4s and Rock Island general 4s reached new highs for the year. Southern Pacific 4½s (Oregon division) was unusually active and firm. New York, Boston and Westchester 4½s sagged more than a point.

Traction Issues Strong.

Marked strength of New York and several other traction issues lent a better tone to utility issues. Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit 6s gained ½ point, and Interboro Rapid Transit issues were strong. Institutional buying of American Telephone issues and several other standard bonds in the group developed. American Telephone 5s of 1946, equaled its 1930 high, and the collateral 6s reached a new top on the movement.

Foreign governments and several municipal issues were moderately accumulated. French 7s established another new high with a ⅜-point gain. South American governments were dull and irregular. Rhine Ruhr 6s, Milan City 6½s, Lyons City 6s and Buenos Aires 6s of 1960, were active and strong.

WASHINGTON: THURSDAY, JULY 24, 1930. 13

CRONIN LEADS NATS TO 10-9 VICTORY OVER BROWNS

Westbrook Pegler Says

THE Brooklyn baseball fans, the only aboriginal tribe of fans still retaining clan identity in a sophisticated major league world, are enjoying an unusually pleasant season this year. The Brooklyn Robins, or Dodgers, have been leading the National League and the tribal spirit has flamed very hot in Flatbush, Bushwick and all the remote and primitive Brooklyn settlements far out toward the ends of the car lines where the civilized New Yorker from Manhattan seldom ventures.

There has been such a rallying around the little tribal headquarters erected by the late Charlie Ebbets as never disturbed the region before, and the traveling secretaries of visiting club have gone away bearing interesting data on the undeveloped riches of the country on the far side of the bridge, gleaned from the turnstile readings. I hear the managament intends to enlarge the Brooklyn ball yard next winter.

Quarreling Interest Still Retained.

The Brooklyn fan is the only baseball patron in this section who still retains a scolding, cheering, quarreling interest in his baseball team. There are still some devotees attending the Giant's games who feel a loyalty to John J. McGraw, but this is a personal following, composed of horse-track people, Tammany regulars and parties who for lack of any more definite classification might be described as gentlemen around and about the town.

They are mostly red-faced, gray in the hair, if any, and very blunt and positive about things, or so I picture them. They do not sit regularly in any particular section of the Polo Ground and their identity as a group is rather loosely held, except at times when there is some occasion to rally to the support of Mr. McGraw.

His baseball club, however, with its ever-changing personnel and its tendency to ballyhoo ephemeral ball players beyond their true importance, after the manner of the Garden Corporation ballyhooing unimportant fighters, does not seem to stir the ferocity in the general run of patrons which distinguished the fan from the mere customer.

McGraw's Followers Not Real Fans.

The Giants have a large following of customers, but from their demeanor at the ball games, as compared with the fierce interest of the Brooklyn fan, I do not judge them to be fans in the old meaning of the word. It has been some years since Mr. McGraw permitted his athletes to express themselves by any amusing or irregular mannerisms on or off the baseball field which might interfere with their duties and suggest a spirit of levity. Consequently, the Giants have not much individuality and the patronage, which undoubtedly includes a large proportion of transient trade, is neither devoted nor hostile.

The Yankees also enjoy a big business, but here the interest centers almost entirely in one man, the Babe, and, anyway, their ball park is too big for intimacy. The Babe's own special gallery is the crowd in the right field bleachers, which is known as Ruthville, but he grew so big that he ceased to be an individual and became an industry some years back, with a promotion manager and many side lines.

Ruthville was so named and organized after the Babe took unto

Tolley, Evans Defeated in Western

Ranking Favorites in Amateur Field Bow in Upsets.

Moe Survives First Two Match Rounds in Title Defense.

BY PAUL MICKELSON.

CHICAGO, July 23 (A.P.).—Two hustling sharpshooters with no regard for golfing reputations daubed the Western Amateur Golf championship with an upset tinge today by spilling two of the highest ranking favorites in the field, Cyril Tolley, of England, and Charles "Chick" Evans, jr., of Chicago out of the championship picture.

The "giant killers" were Bob McCrary, fighting Scot from Des Moines, Iowa, who dropped Tolley one up after a thrilling, up-hill fight, and Charlie Fish of Rockford, Ill., who sank a 35-foot putt on the nineteenth green for a sparkling birdie three and a big victory over Evans.

Moe and Perkins Easy Winners.

Their victories, posted among the last two results, were the only disturbing gestures of an otherwise true-to-form day.

Don Moe of Portland, Oregon, the defending champion, and T. Phillips Perkins, England's second and last hope in the championship fight, romped through with ease in their first pair of 18 hole round battles. Of the two, Perkins was the most impressive. He shot almost perfect golf, trouncing Freddy Lyons of Chicago, Western junior champion, 6 and 5, and staggering Earle Berryhill of Colorado Springs, Colo., by the decisive margin of 8 and 7.

Moe wasn't extended, although his margins were close. He eliminated Vincent Huntington, of Chicago, 4 and 2, in the first round and Johnny Howard, Kalamazoo, Mich., youth, 2 and 1, in the afternoon.

Lehman Eliminates Nordstrom.

Johnny Lehman, of Chicago, comedalist with Evans, reached the quarter-final round with two victories over worthy foemen. He defeated Lloyd Nordstrom, of Davenport, Ia., the Nordic who topped the qualifying field at the end of the first eighteen-hole round, 4 and 3, and followed through in the afternoon with a 3-and-1 triumph over George Dawson, Chicago.

The closest semblance to an upset outside the defeats of Tolley and Evans today, was the elimination of Keefe Carter, of Oklahoma City, former champion, by Gus Novotny, Chicago, 2 up in the second round.

Other survivors were Jack Westland, Chicago district champion, who defeated Lew Levinson, Chicago, 2 and 1, and the veteran Ruddy Knepper, Chicago, 3 and 1, and Ira Couch, Chicago, who trimmed Don Anderson, St. Louis, 3 and 2, and Homer Joy, Colorado Springs, Colo., 1 up.

Italian Bantam Beaten By 'Panama Al' Brown

New York, July 23 (A.P.).—Panama Al Brown, generally recognized as the world's bantamweight champion, pounded out a ten-round decision over Domenico Bernasconi, of Italy, at Ebbets Field tonight. Both fighters weighed 122½ pounds.

Using a long left jab and a hard right-hander to the face, Brown clearly outclassed the Italian from the opening bell. Bernasconi was able to land only three blows at long range during the entire fight, being satisfied to clinch and hit Brown about the body with light blows.

Harry Smith, of New York, knocked out Babe McCorgary, of Wichita, Kans., in the third round of a scheduled ten-round fight.

QUINN HURLS MACKS TO 4-1 WIN

Veteran Holds Tigers to 5 Hits; Falters in Ninth.

DETROIT, July 23 (A.P.). — The ancient Jack Quinn pitched prewar baseball today to score his ninth victory of the season at the expense of the Tigers, 4 to 1, and even up the four-game series.

George Uhle was the victim. While the Tiger ace was yielding nine hits, Quinn was holding the Bengals to five safe blows. After two Tigers had walked in the ninth, Earnshaw relieved Quinn. He allowed one hit, but the next three men went down, the last two on a snappy double play.

In addition to the five hits Quinn allowed, only three balls were poled into the outfield by Tiger batters. Their victory enabled the Athletics to maintain their four-game lead over the second-place Washington Club.

Outfield Star Not Ready To Play

Injury Still Handicap to Running, at Bat and in Field.

Crowder or Liska to Oppose Chisox in Series Opener.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, St. Louis, Mo., July 23.—Although Heinie Manush is scheduled to return to the Washington line-up in the opener of the series with the White Sox in Chicago tomorrow, it is the writer's opinion that the big flychaser will change his mind and decide to wait a few days longer before attempting his comeback.

Manush, himself, declares that he is ready. While admitting that every time he starts running his injured groin muscle hurts him, he believes that only actual work is needed to get him back in condition. This probably is true, but Trainer Mike Martin was not any too optimistic tonight and the chances are that Manush will be held out longer, possibly not making his return into the line-up until the Nationals return home next week.

If Manush does play tomorrow, the only manner in which he can help the team is in bolstering its morale and possibly adding a punch at bat. In the field and in running out hits, however, he is still practically a cripple as his injury is of the type whereby any wrench or jerk would cause a recurrence, it looks as though Manager Walter Johnson will be "penny wise and pound foolish" if he takes a chance on using him at this time, as he will be gambling possibly another month's loss against only two or three days gain at this time.

Manush's Need Now Not Great.

As the nationals have beaten the White Sox in seven out of their eleven meetings this season and should—although maybe they won't—have little trouble in taking three of the four games scheduled in the Windy City, the great rush to get Manush back in the game at this time is not apparent except, as already stated, to bolster the team mentally.

It is General Alvin Crowder's turn to pitch tomorrow, but Manager Johnson tonight was considering giving him an extra day's rest and calling on Adolph Liska, who appears to be ready. The folk from the subway hurler's home town, Dwight, Nebr., are planning to put on a day for "Snookie" in Chicago and if the Nat leader learns upon his arrival there plans have been made for some other date, he likely will hold Liska over for it, and Crowder will take his regular turn.

Johnson also is planning to revamp his lineup for the Chicago series, giving Sam Rice the lead-off position. The veteran outfielder is

Boston, Held to 4 Hits, Bows to Chisox Rally

Chicago, July 23 (A.P.).—Red Faber and Hal McKain held Boston to four hits today, while the White Sox pounded Danny MacFayden for enough hits to score a 5-to-3 victory.

Faber gave four hits in six innings and retired for a pinch batsman in the Sox half of the sixth. McKain held the Red Sox hitless the rest of the way. Boston bunched two of its hits with a walk and a sacrifice for three runs in the sixth to go into the lead, but the White Sox rallied in the last of the inning to tie it up and scored two more in the eighth. The victory gave the White Sox three out of five in the series.

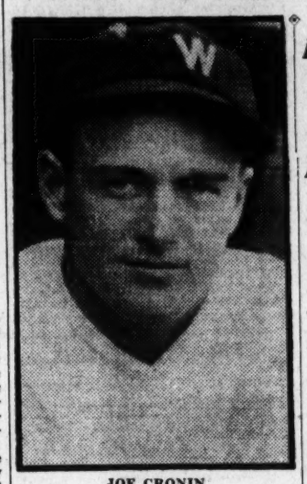
SHORTSTOP'S 4 HITS, 2 FOR CIRCUIT, SEND ST. LOUIS TO DEFEAT



JOE CRONIN

Hadley Halts Hitting After Marberry and Crowder Fail.

Browns Take Lead by Staging Six-Run Rally in 8th.

the St. Louis pitcher was pounded off the peak in the third.

McNeely's opening single, Hale's double and Goslin's infield out gave the Browns the first run of the game and Marberry pulled out of quite a hole in this round after filling the bases by passing two. In the second, scratch hits by Harris and Spencer, an infield out and Rice's double gave the Nats two runs, and the Browns knotted the count in their half with a marker molded from McNeely's opening double and Hale's one-baser.

Then Gray's trouble started. Cronin broke the deadlock with his four-base clout into the center-field stands, and a base on balls, Bluege's double and Marberry's single were responsible for another and the end of Gray. West greeted Kimsey with a double, scoring Spencer, but Marberry was nipped at the plate when he, too, tried to register.

The Nationals scored three more runs in their fourth, singles by Rice and Cronin, a walk, Harris' two-baser, Bluege's sacrifice fly accounting for these, and the game simply drifted along until the Browns suddenly came to life in the eighth with their six-run rally which brought them from nowhere to one to the good.

Marberry Wilts Rapidly.

Marberry's downfall was rapid and complete, the result of letting down and then being unable to pull himself together. Metzler, Melillo and Badgro singled in rapid order and Kimsey tripled, the Nats getting a break when Metzler was called out because Melillo's drive hit him. When McNeely coaxed a pass, Crowder relieved Marberry and singles by Hale and Goslin showed that this was not the General's day.

Hadley then took up the burden and granted Kress a hit before settling down, this blow giving the Browns their fifth run of the frame and knotting the count. After Ferrell had popped to Cronin, the Browns drew a break to make up for the one which went against them earlier in the inning, Metzler rolling to Cronin. The ball did not bounce truly, however, and Cronin fell as he grabbed it and tried to throw to first, and this went as a hit and let the runner score with the marker that put the natives on top.

Cronin's Homer Ties Score.

Cronin personally got this run back as lead-off man in the next inning, however, poling out his second homer of the game by lashing a liner into the stands in the left field sector.

It took a fine catch by Melillo of Hadleys short looper and Kimsey's sensational stop of a liner from West's bat to prevent a Washington threat in the tenth, while Hadley set down the Brownies in one two three order and with little effort.

Then came the eleventh and what proved to be the final frame, with the Nats knocking Kimsey off the hill while scoring a marker and with Hadley taking great pains to see that it was not equaled in the home half.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

Special to The Washington Post.

SPORTSMAN'S Park, St. Louis, July 23.—West opened the game with a short looper to left, hitting Gray's first offering. Goslin had to come in mighty fast to rob the centerfielder of a hit.

With one dead in the first, Gray walked both Rice and Judge but then pulled out of the hole due largely to the fact that one of his wild heaves hit Cronin's bat and a roller to McNeely resulted.

Marberry's strike-out feat ending the Brownies' first surely was a big one. It came with the bases loaded and the count three and two on Melillo. Had the pitch been poor, a runner would have been forced home.

After Harris had bounced a single off of Hale's glove opening round 2, Bluege popped to Melillo. The St. Louis second sacker let the ball drop, evidently figuring that this might draw Harris off first and make a double play possible, but the Greensboro Sheriff would not fall into a trap of this kind.

Rice's double, which drove home one of the Nat runs in the second, hit the screen guarding the stands in center less than two yards from where it ends. This wire was stretched in front of the extreme right field portion of the stands because even the home run loving fans were getting "fed up" on seeing ordinary flies recorded as round trippers.

Myer went over toward first to make a nice one-handed stop of Goslon's hot grasser ending the second with Hale on base at the time.

Schulte, playing deep for Harris in the third, had to come in fast to

Luque Pitches Robins To Victory Over Cards

Brooklyn, July 23 (A.P.).—Adolfo Luque's superb pitching added a full game to Brooklyn's hold on first place in the National League today as the Robins made it three out of five against the St. Louis Cardinals by winning the series final, 4 to 1. Their rival Chicago Cubs lost to New York.

Sylvester Johnson gave the Cuban veteran a stiff duel until the seventh inning, but weakened a bit at the finish.

BLUE LARKSPUR INJURED, MAY NEVER RACE AGAIN

Bradley Star Lame After Workout

1929 Champion Out of $35,000 Race Due Saturday.

Third Ranking Money Winner May Be Retired to Stud.

CHICAGO, July 23 (A.P.).—Blue Larkspur, 1929 3-year-old champion of America, today was scratched from the Arlington Handicap $35,000 added, at Arlington Park next Saturday because of a serious breakdown in his workout this morning.

The gallant 4-year-old son of Black Servant-Blossom Time, owned by Col. E. R. Bradley, of Lexington, Ky., may never race again, according to his trainer, H. J. Thompson. The horse, which ranks third among all-time money winners on American turf, pulled up lame and Thompson said he feared its racing days were over.

The trainer said Blue Larkspur probably would be shipped to Lexington and retired to the stud. The horse, Thompson said, is too valuable to risk further injury. Blue Larkspur had won two wealthy stakes at Arlington Park, taking the Stars and Stripes handicap July 4, from a fast field, and duplicating the feat in the $25,000 Arlington Cup last Saturday.

With Blue Larkspur out of the race, Curate, owned by Joseph E. Widener, of New York, was installed as favorite for Saturday's race. Curate worked a sparkling mile and a quarter today, reeling off the distance in 2:04 2-5.

Blue Larkspur suffered a serious breakdown in the East last fall, but regained form this summer.

THE Texas Handicap at Arlington Park has a field of four, with PANSY WALKER, a Texas filly, the probable winner of the 6-furlong dash. DINAH DID UPSET, if at top form, will be hard to beat, but her racing has been interrupted by a layoff, and there is no recent line on the daughter of UPSET. These two are in at even weights of 109 pounds, while MY DANDY has been allotted 121. There is not that much difference between them, and MORSEL, at 103, may get show money. PANSY WALKER has as much speed when at her best as MY DANDY, and the latter may be anchored outside. On some races DINAH DID UPSET could beat them all.

The FIRST RACE is for 2-year-olds, with claiming conditions. TRYOR and VOLTABUSH appear the contenders, and preference has been given TRYOR. VOLTABUSH probably will be the favorite. GOOD FRIEND looks like the third horse, but the field is large and uncertain.

The SECOND RACE is the Summit Hunt at a mile and a half over hurdles for maiden jumpers. Few of the field have ever taken the hurdles. This has the largest purse of the day, $2,000. The J. E. Widener horse, INDIGO, had most speed of any in this field on the flat and should make a good jumper. He appears the class by odds of this field. LEE COOPER is a speedy horse, but a mudder. He may prove to be a valuable jumper, but this is his first attempt. BAGATELLE is good material for cross-field racing.

THIRD RACE — TADDYWAWA stands out in the third race, although not now at top form. HOT TIME has early speed, and should figure in the race. NORA D. is a speedy filly, and is dangerous. She should be in the money.

FIFTH RACE—FLYER from Audley Farm is selected to win the fifth race, which is a mile, and is coupled with HONEY GROVE. FORTUNATE YOUTH should be the contender. SUSIE JANE has the edge on the others. The race is for three-year-olds.

SIXTH RACE—ROLLING SEA will have SEARINGTON to beat in the sixth race. He has been very consistent this season, and is a liveller horse than SEARINGTON, which went off his best form early in the spring, after the tracks began to dry out. A recent race was a good effort, and he may make himself troublesome. FRANCES MILWARD will be the contender for place.

SEVENTH RACE—MASTER ACE seems well placed in the seventh race. COMET won a good race last week, and may go well in this event. AVIATOR is best of the others.

EIGHTH RACE — FRIEDJOF NANSEN should win the eighth race. He is usually in good form. The distance, a mile and a furlong, suits him. WOODAXTON is rated the contender. PRETTY POSE has the speed and should get in the money.

CALOME greatly improved and going in best form, moved up fast on the inside from slow beginning and, racing to front entering stretch, drew out and won as rider pleased. ZIDA had to race on the outside, lost ground, but stayed forwardly, only weakening in the late stages. BETTY BARRETT was done in the stretch.

GLIDELIA began fast and, setting rapid pace, displayed speed throughout and, drawing away strongly, won in a canter. IN BETWEEN was always a forward factor, keeping close up to stretch, disposed of ULTRA MARINE, but could never threaten the winner. OUTBURST began poorly, being outrun to stretch, then closed big gap to be third.

MAXIVA came fast into the lead entering stretch, opened up big advantage an eighth away, but tired and just lasted. ROYAL CHARGE was a prominent factor all the way, came strongly and almost wore down winner in final strides.

WELSH OUSTS O'NEIL IN MUNICIPAL NET TOURNEY

Seeded Star Defeated by Schoolboy

Western High Leader Winner in Upset, 5-7, 6-4, 6-1.

Plays Yeomans Today; Considine Also in Quarter-Finals.

PUBLIC parks netmen resumed play in their championship tournament yesterday to the accompaniment of fireworks, but all of them except Bernard "Barney" Welsh were merely spectators in the display of pyrotechnics.

Barney was the lad with the match in his hand and he set off a bomb under Maurice O'Neill, seeded third among the favorites. In a three-set match in which he displayed Grade A tennis throughout, Welsh was returned winner by scores of 5—7, 6—4, 6—1.

Welsh, captain of the championship Western High School Tennis Team the past spring, first broke into the local tournament limelight last year when he eliminated Bob Considine, Washington's leading racqueter, in the City of Washington event.

Yesterday he gave notice that his 1929 feat was no flash in the pan. His victim was the 1929 public parks double champion and single champion in 1923 and 1924. It was by far the biggest upset in local tenns this season.

Races Through Third Set.

The veteran, O'Neill, a left-hander, found his younger foe's pace tolo hot, and after the first set Welsh was complete master of the situation. He fairly raced through the third set, losing but one game.

The upset occurred in the fourth round and sent Welsh to the quarter-finals along with six of the original eight seeded stars. Alan Staubly, seeded fourth, was eliminated by Anthony Latona, former teammate of Welsh, last Sunday.

Today Welsh will meet Eddie Yeomans, University of North Carolina netman, seeded fifth, in a quarter-final match, starting at 4 p. m., on the Monument courts. In the only other singles match carded today, Bob Considine, defending champion, seeded first, will engage Hugh Trigg, champion in 1925, seeded eighth.

Dooly Mitchell Wins in Straight Sets.

Other favorites surviving are Dooly Mitchell, No. 2, who defeated Bill Buchanan, 6—4, 6—4; Bud Markey, No. 6, who downed Larry Phillips, 6—0, 6—1; Frank Shore, District junior champion, who eliminated Clay Coss, 6—4, 8—6. Considine entered the quarter-finals last Monday by defeating Dan Daly. Yeomans and Trigg came through yesterday, the former beating Lieut. Stanley K. Robinson, Army star, 3—6, 6—3, 8—6, and the latter disposing of Robert Boyd, 6—2, 6—0.

Considine and Mitchell, seeded No. 1 in the doubles, adanced to the third round in this division by conquering Edge and Gould, 6—4, 6—2. O'Neill and Shoemaker, playing-through champions, had previously made this advance.

make a great running catch of the near Texas Leaguer which followed.

Had Marberry not loafed when West hit his double in the third, he would have scored easily. He did not take his running seriously, however, until he saw Goslin chasing the ball after it bounded badly off the left field wall and then was thrown out at the plate by only a matter of inches.

Cronin chased over back of the middle cushion to knock down Melillo's grass cutter in the third and then ended the frame by recovering quickly and forcing out Ferrell, who was slow heading for second.

When Kimsey walked Myer in the fourth, he filled the bases, duplicating Gray's stunt of the second frame when Marberry was passed with two on.

Spencer made a fine play on Badgro's attempted bunt opening the St. Louis fourth, taking the foul pop which followed by juggling the ball after it fell in his big mitt an arms length away.

Kress went to the grass back of third to make a nice stop and peg of Marberry's bounder ending the Nats' sixth.

Alex Metzler, obtained by the Browns from the White Sox via waivers, made his St. Louis debut today when he relieved Schulte starting the eighth. His first time at bat he singled sharply to center.

JOHNSON MAY USE RICE FOR LEAD-OFF

doing the most consistent hitting of any of the Nationals, but most of his blows are going to waste.

Calls Rice Natural Lead-Off Man.

"Maybe if we can get Sam on the bases earlier in innings, some of the others can bat him home," said Johnson. "In any event, I've always rated Rice as a natural lead-off man because he is a hard man to pitch to and often gets on either by walks or by dealing out infield taps that are not handled cleanly. I think the experiment is worth trying."

Although the Nationals have changed their signals for this series with then Browns because Goose Goslin, of course, knows them and no doubt has passed them along to his new mates, Manager Johnson yesterday suspected that the natives had figured out the new ones and adopted a scheme supposed to check this.

Here's what happened. Each batter was told what to do as he left the bench and Coach Schacht at third was instructed to fool around but not give any signals. Johnson, from first, then signalled exactly the opposite of what he had instructed his men to do. Schacht knowing that the Nats were paying no attention to him, then decided it would be a smart stunt were he to give just the opposite signals from those flashed by Johnson. In other words, Schacht unknowingly signalled for the proper plays and, as the Browns knew he generally flashed out the instructions, they knew exactly what the Nats planned and played accordingly. Needless to say, Schacht was properly and fully instructed as soon as Manager Johnson discovered how things were working out.

Braves and Reds Split; Remain Tied for Sixth

Boston, July 23 (A.P.).—The Braves and Cincinnati remained hand-in-hand in sixth place in the National League as the result of their taking turns winning in a double header here today. The Reds battered out a four-run rally in the ninth inning of the first game to register an 8-to-7 win and the Braves took the second, 6 to 5 in eleven innings.

Pitcher Seibold drove in the winning run in the second game with a single to center which scored Spohrer, who had walked and advanced to second on Maguire's sacrifice.

SPENGLER POST DRILLS.

The Spengler Post Nine will practice at 5 o'clock today on Monument Lot diamond No. 5.

Defense of Title to Mark Return of Frances Krucoff

Capital Championship Next Week to Find Star in Action.

FRANCES KRUCOFF.

FRANCES KRUCOFF, four times winner of the women's District of Columbia tennis singles championship, will make her first appearance of the current season in formal competition beginning next Monday when she takes the courts in the annual women's titular tournament at Columbia Country Club.

Miss Krucoff again will be the favorite, according to close observers in feminine net circles, and her strongest opposition will come from Marywill Wakeford, Josephine Dunham and Mrs. Ruth Martinez, the first two of whom were seeded second and third, respectively, in the 1929 tournament.

Champion Has Practiced.

Whether the champion is "on her game," despite lack of tournament play thus far is a matter of conjecture, but it is believed that she has spent considerable time practicing during the past month. That she will encounter formidable opposition from the Misses Wakeford, Dunham and Mrs. Martinez seems assured, inasmuch as all three have been performing in organized competition for several months.

Miss Dunham, in particular, is likely to prove a stumbling block for Miss Krucoff, as she showed fine tennis in winning the singles in the City of Washington and the Women's District Tennis League tournaments. Accompanied by Miss Wakeford and Mrs. Martinez, Miss Dunham yesterday advanced to the quarter finals of the West Virginia championships at White Sulphur Springs.

Entries to Close on Sunday.

Entries for the forthcoming tourney must be in the hands of Mrs. J. H. Ford by 3 p. m. Sunday. Mrs. Ford's address is Ontario Apartments, and telephone Adams 3636. No matches will be scheduled to start after 4:30 p. m. any day, it was announced. Singles entrants will be charged a fee of $2, while each player in doubles will be charged $1.50.

Miss Wakeford, formerly a Washington resident, now lives in Macon, Ga. Other out-of-town players are expected to enter, among them the Tabler sisters, of Baltimore.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

ALEXANDRIA, July 23. — Saks Clothiers, baseball sensations in the Nation's Capital, will travel to Alexandria Sunday to mix with the St. Mary's Celtics, semipro baseball champions in northern Virginia. This contest will be played in Bagget's Stadium at 3 o'clock.

The Washington tossers have won seventeen consecutive contests. This club is composed of former scholastic stars and is managed by Dick Mothersead. Sam Ross, no-hit no-run twirler, with Central High School, is expected to oppose the Celtics' hitters.

Lefty McIntyre, Washington's wanderlust southpaw, or "Peanuts" Hamilton, star interstate pitcher, will get the mound duties for the Virginians.

The Red Robins won the undisputed Municipal Insect League baseball title yesterday when they easily walloped the Nationals, 7-4. Newton was the big man for the winners and granted the Nationals nine scattered hits. He also lead his teammates at bat. The Red Robins were undefeated in the Insect League play.

Director J. Prex Wilson announces that the Midget Municipal League will end on August 1. In yesterday's game the Colonials held to the top rung when the stopped the Friends Nine, 7-3. Potter allowed but one scratch hit for the winners. He fanned seven batters.

Alexandria American Legion Junior defeated Charlottesville Tuesday in the junior State championship series to enter into the semifinals. The Alexandria boys play Danville next. The winning club of this game will meet Roanoke, who drew a bye, in the final game for the title in Richmond Thursday. Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia will toss out the first ball to start the contest.

City Manager Wallace Lawrence, City Treasurer Roger Sullivan, parents of the boys and legionnaires of the Alexandria post, are in Richmond witnessing this series. The Alexandria team is coached by J. Prex Wilson, former William and Mary College star.

Marshall Baggett, track captain of William and Mary College, has completely recovered from a knee operation and is expected to run the 220-yard hurdles and the 440-yard dash for the Indians. Baggett's home is in Alexandria. He is a former local high school star.

Raymond Peverill and Bill Wood, two popular Alexandria umpires, have received the assignment to officiate at the annual baseball game in Washington between the two railway baseball teams. This contest will be played in Griffith's Stadium, Seventh street and Florida avenue, in August.

Herbert Bryant, star halfback with the University of Virginia football team last fall, will report for fall practice at Charlottesville the first of September. Bryant is a former Episcopal high school star and resides in Alexandria.

Bob Merchant, former football player with the Alexandria fire department football team, is now a radio entertainer over Station WJSV.

The Mechanical Nine in the R. P. & P. Railway League opened the second half of this loop wth a well-earned victory yesterday over the Transportation Team, 10-9. This game was played on Eppa Hunton Field before a large crowd.

SAYS PEGLER

himself this promotion manager, and sometimes the emotional effects in Ruthville have been so jerky and mechanical that I have suspected the presence of mercenary agitators in their midst to cue them off in their demonstrations. These things are done in the sport industry, of course.

Brooklyn Fans are Quite Natural.

The Brooklyn fans, though, are plainly impulsive and quite natural. They abuse their own athletes with all the furious wrath and painful candor of close relatives in a household row, but when the pinch comes the Robins are their ball club and they stand with them against the league. Not many years ago every major league ball club had one or two nut rooters who sat in the same seats at all or most of the home games doing curious things or yelling distinctive remarks, some of them quite goofy and meaningless under analysis, and made themselves locally famous for their goings-on. Nowadays I do not hear of any such, except at the Brooklyn Park, although it is true I have not been going around the leagues to look for specimens of this strange wild-life—the nut fan.

The most persistent and bothersome of the nut fans in Brooklyn is a female of the species, a portly lady with a red complexion and a voice and vocabulary which sound as though they might have been cultivated on the tailboard of a fish wagon in the alleys of the borough.

Not Merely Seeking Attention.

I first noticed this lady nut several years ago, scolding and bawling out the Brooklyn athletes one moment and turning on the members of the visiting troupe the next. Old settlers of Ebbets Field told me then she had been at it for years. It is a bit of a surprise to observe that she is still as energetic, noisy and pestiferous as ever, and I am now ready to admit that any one who can keep going as long as she has is not merely appealing for attention, but is a genuine nut.

Sometimes she organizes crowds of the younger set around her and sets up concerted yowlings to upset the gentlemen of the opposition, as on a recent day when the Phillies trotted out a pitcher with a four-count windup. The lady set up squawking "One! two! three! four!" as the pitcher wound up for each pitch, and the Brooklyn fans took up the count with her. The pitcher changed his beat, winding up in three counts and then dropped it to two to throw them off, but he lasted three innings and walked off, leaving two men on base.

Another Consistently Against Robins.

There is another Brooklyn nut fan, known just as Abe, who seems to root consistently against the Robins, sometimes rising to point at individual athletes in the dugout and shout approbrious remarks. I hear tell that he has sometimes required cops to protect him from other fans whose loyalties have been outraged by his comments.

The Brooklyn fan may be rational on all other subjects, but you touch him off when you mention baseball. I was talking to a perfect specimen and he discussed many things in a reasonable way, but when I mentioned the abuse of the Brooklyn catcher, Hank De Berry, in Saturday's game with the Cubs, a maniac stare appeared in his eyes, his hair stood out like a porcupine's bristles and he began to shout.

"De Berry deserved what he got," he yelled. "De Berry threw aw v that ball game. Makes no difference how long he has been with the ball club. Robby should have jerked him out of there and put Lopez in to catch. Robby threw down the fans. They wanted to win that ball game and he wouldn't put Lopez in!"

Allowances Made for Fans.

People came running, but, of course, when they saw that it was only a Brooklyn fan criticizing Uncle Wilbert Robinson they pointed to their hats, made whirligig motions with their fingers and stood by smiling.

On the Fourth of July a year ago the Brooklyn fans threw large cannon crackers at the outfielders of the opposing, or enemy, ball club, which I believe was the Giants. Lately, some of them have been throwing pop bottles in their agitation over the ball games. They lit on Hack Wilson, of the Cubs, in the series last week, calling him "Milk Wagon" Wilson, presumably a reference to his clumsy, short-legged waddle, but when Ike Boone, an old ball player, recently joined their team from the Pacific Coast League to play center field, they immediately accepted him as an earnest and deserving member.

Old Ike is mostly a hitter and his fielding has held him back in his career, but he began by leaning back over the low wall and catching a fly ball one-handed, which would have been a home run otherwise. That established Mr. Boone, and though he does much of his fielding sliding on his countenance, they have not yet turned against him in Brooklyn.

Cincinnati used to be the home of some wild specimens of the nut fan, and the St. Louis Browns and the White Sox also numbered rare ones among their followings. But they seem to have died off or turned sane or succumbed to the discouragement of years of defeat. Anyway, baseball people inform me that the Brooklyn tribe is the only tribe which still retains its identity and observes the old tribal customs of the baseball fans.

V. P. I. PLANS GREATEST SQUADS

Miles to Double Size of Groups in Track and Football.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., July 23.—Virginia Polytechnic Institute will have the largest football and track squads in her history within two years if plans of C. P. Miles, director of athletics, work out. With an enlarged coaching staff on year-round duty, Mr. Miles is ready to double the size of all athletic squads at the college.

"We are planning for the future and building from the ground up," the genial director said. "For the past few years the seven varsity squads have listed, all told, not more than 200 men. The corps of cadets includes hundreds of prospective athletes just as good as the cadets who go out for the teams, and I am out to get them. I have football coaches on a year-round contract, so they will be here during winter and spring to teach the game to cadets not on the varsity squad.

"I want the boys who are inexperienced, for the coaches will give most of their time to those after the fall season closes. We are going to organize teams and coach them and put football on a competitive basis. We are going to have more men playing football, learning football, and consequently more football players."

Spring Football Emphasized.

These changes will mean that spring, not fall, is to be the big season for non-varsity football. The varsity will be the center of attention in the fall, but the freshmen and the corps-at-large are to be taught gridiron tactics during late winter and spring.

Track also is in for a boost. The annual intercompany track meet is to be staged in the fall instead of late spring, so that about 100 cadets who annually take part in this meet can be put through a course of training, starting in September. All varsity trackmen not out for other sports are expected to work out during the fall months. Prof. Paul Dyck, former versatile athlete at Oberlin; Prof. M. B. Blair, director of physical education, and Harold Osborn, Olympic track star, are ready to conduct the training work and to fit the cadets for competition. Thus large squads will be put in training months before the indoor and outdoor seasons get under way. Mr. Miles is planning for the future.

Tribe Gains Revenge, Beating Yanks, 10 to 6

Cleveland, July 23 (A.P.).—The Indians evened an old score with the New York Yankees today when they trounced their rivals, 10 to 6, to make it four out of five for the series. Cleveland was the victim of a similar beating the last time the team visited New York.

Wesley Ferrell took a severe battering at times; giving twelve hits, but the Indians pounded Herb Pennock, Ownie Carroll and Ken Holloway for sixteen blows. One of them was Eddie Morgan's nineteenth home run of the year, which set a new Cleveland record, beating the mark Earl Averill set last year in an entire season's clouting. It was Ferrell's fifteenth victory of the season.

The game was a nip-and-tuck affair up to the eighth inning, when the Indians drove Pennock from the mound and continued against his successors, combining six hits with Yankee errors for five runs.

$16,000,000 in Gold To Sail From U. S.

Consignment Bulk Going to France; $337,000 Comes From Brazil.

New York, July 23 (A.P.).—A total of $16,000,000 in gold was withdrawn for shipment to foreign countries today.

The largest shipment amounted to $14,000,000 consigned to France on the liner Europa, sailing tonight This consisted of a consignment of $8,000,000 by Lazard Freres, international banking house, and $6,000,000 by the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York. The remainder, amounting to $2,000,000, was shipped to Canada.

The movement of the yellow metal to France was begun last week with consignments of $4,000,000 each by Lazard Freres and the Guaranty Trust Co. In both cases the shipments have been effected owing to the premium on the French francs in the New York exchange market which has made it more profitable to buy, pack, insure and ship gold than to buy its equivalent in franc exchange. Importations of gold today amounted to $337,000, received from Brazil. There was no net change in gold earmarked for foreign account.

Railway Express Cited In Quarantine Violation

Charges of violating the plant quarantine were preferred yesterday in Police Court against the Railway Express Agency. Twenty-five counts are contained in the information filed by Assistant United States Attorney Rebekah Greathouse with Judge Isaac R. Hitt. No date for the hearing of the charges was set.

Allegations are made that the company transported into the District plants which bore no certificate of inspection as ordered by Congress. Action of the United States attorney's office in filing the charges is said to have followed complaints made by the Department of Agriculture.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

CATTLE IN FAIRFAX TUBERCULIN TESTED

Report of Completed Work Shows Low Percentage of Disease.

COUNTY IS ACCREDITED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

Cattle in Fairfax County have been tuberculin tested. This work, recently completed in the county under the area plan, was done by the State and the Federal Government in cooperation with the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors. The inspectors were appointed by the United States and Virginia Departments of Agriculture.

Since November 1, 1929, a total of 13,188 cattle in 1,883 herds were tuberculin tested and of this number 76 cattle in 49 herds reacted to the tests showing the presence of tuberculosis. The inspectors were surprised to find the percentage of tuberculosis a great deal lower than had been expected when the testing was started.

Fairfax County has been certified as a modified accredited tuberculosis free area for a period of three years. At the end of that time a check will be made to determine whether or not the county has been kept free of diseased cattle. The small percentage this year will lessen the work necessary to recredit the county at the end of the three-year period. In the meantime, the county is under a quarantine and regulations provide that no cattle for dairy or breeding purposes may be imported unless they have first been tested and passed. Persons importing such cattle must also be able to obtain a certificate of the tuberculin test before the cattle are eligible for entry into the county.

The showing of the area in the tests may result from the fact that most farmers of the county ship their dairy products to Washington and health regulations there require that all cattle must be tuberculin tested.

C. H. Simmons, of Staunton, Va., was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Henry Magarity on the Lee highway, about 1 mile east of Fairfax, and charged with operating a car while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Justice of the Peace Thomas P. Chapman, of Fairfax, held him for the action of the grand jury at the September term of court.

The special committee on the location of a central vocational high school in Fairfax County met yesterday at the courthouse. During the day the committee visited several locations suggested by representatives of the various communities and organizations. No action was taken by the committee at yesterday's meeting, as two of the members were unable to attend. The group plans to hold a short meeting August 4 at which time it expects to draft a tentative report.

The Catholic Students' Mission Crusade Union will hold an open-air meeting tomorrow night in the home of Miss Gladys Ballard in West Falls Church.

The Falls Church Boys' Club will meet tonight in the parish hall of the Presbyterian Church at Falls Church to complete organization and to elect officers. The boys of the town have shown great interest in the club and more than 40 attended the preliminary meeting week before last.

The Fairfax County Firemen's Association will meet tonight in Robey Hall in Fairfax. J. H. Beattie, of McLean, president of the county association, has urged that each of the five volunteer departments in the county be prepared to submit a list of the equipment they need. This list should be submitted to the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors at its next meeting. Necessities for the departments, to a limited extent, will be provided from tax money devoted in the county budget for fire protection purposes. This money will become available this fall.

The Young People's Missionary Society of McLean will hold its meeting tomorrow night at the home of Miss Eloise and Miss Frances Faidley. The society plans to study the book, "West Indian Treasures."

Volunteer firemen of Vienna will present a motion picture program tomorrow night in the Vienna Town Hall for the benefit of the local department.

Citizens of Lee District will hold a mass meeting tomorrow night in the school house at Lorton to consider the proposed bonding of Lee District to build 25 miles of hard surfaced roads. Opponents of the bond issue claim that the present policy of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, of improving additional road mileage each year in each district, will in the next few years provide practically all the residents of the county with access to main highways.

Village in Madison In Path of Forest Fire

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., July 23.—The village of Syria, Madison County, not far from President Hoover's fishing lodge on the Rapidan River, is threatened by a widespread mountain fire that has broken out in the Blue Ridge. This is the second fire in that section within the past month. Marines stationed at the Hoover camp and the Hoover mountain school, with fire wardens from Madison and Greene Counties, are battling the flames to keep them from the settlements.

The territory is covered with leaves and underbrush so dry that the fires are reported to be traveling 20 and 30 miles an hour. High winds throughout the region make it impossible to change the course of the fires as they sweep up the steep mountain sides.

Mt. Nebo Woman Dies When Hit by Lightning

Special to The Washington Post.

Berkeley Springs, W. Va., July 23.—Mrs. Winona Effland, 26, wife of Alonzo Effland, was instantly killed when struck by lightning at her home at Mount Nebo, in the county near here, during a severe electrical storm Tuesday afternoon. She had gone upstairs to close windows when the bolt struck.

The house was set afire but the blaze was controlled by her husband and a neighbor, both of whom were stunned by the bolt. Mr. Effland found his wife dead upstairs. The body was taken to Keyser, W. Va., for burial.

ACADEMY AWAITING ESCAPADE VERDICT

Suggested Penalties for Letting Girls in Hall Are Held Too Severe.

OFFICIAL REPORT SENT

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 23.—What form of punishment will be meted out to two or more midshipmen of the second class, involved in the "smuggling" incident, whereby they infringed upon Naval Academy regulations by permitting two young women to dine with them in the mess room of Bancroft Hall, is attracting much interest here. Reports varying from recommendation for dismissal to assignment of demerits and doing penance aboard the station ship Reina Mercedes, are in circulation, but officials of the academy have not revealed what final conclusions were.

All inquiries are met with the statement that a report of the incident has been forwarded to the Navy Department, to be passed upon through regular channels. It was said today at the academy that it will probably be several days before final announcement is made.

It is generally reported that at least four midshipmen are directly involved in the affair, two for actually aiding the girls in their disguise, and two others for failing to report the infraction.

Meanwhile, two fellow classmates, names not revealed, have come to the defense of their comrades. A formal statement issued by these two students today in part said:

"As we see it, our classmates are about to be punished for something which none of us can see is serious enough to warrant the extreme penalty given only for actions of criminal nature.

"The two young ladies involved are from very good families and their respectability is unquestionable. Had they realized along with their escorts that their act was going to be taken so seriously by the authorities, they certainly would not have accepted the invitation to come into the mess hall. The affair was just a lark, lasting only fifteen minutes.

"In the opinion of the entire regiment of midshipmen, our classmates involved in the affair have not received fair treatment in the matter. Their offense is not serious enough to warrant the severe penalties which have been proposed and given out."

Silas Mortimer Funk Expires at Strasburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Strasburg, Va., July 23.—Silas Mortimer Funk, son of the late Obed S. and Mary Susan Funk, died at his home in Strasburg Monday at the age of 81 years, after an illness of four weeks. He was born in Strasburg and spent his entire life in this town.

In early manhood he engaged in the tannery business near the old Funk home. When he gave up that business he was employed by the Southern Railroad Co. as foreman at Strasburg Junction, which position he held until he was forced to retire from active service.

Soldier Is Killed In Window Fall

Officials Hold Victim Took Running Leap in Plunge at Railroad Station.

Richmond, Va., July 23 (A.P.).—Stephen Wright Boone, 21, of the Fifty-first Coast Artillery, Fort Monroe, was fatally injured in a fall or jump early this morning from a second story window of a railroad station here. He died within an hour after being taken to a hospital.

Boone was said by station officials to have been in the waiting room practically all day yesterday and part of last night. He had not purchased a ticket and no money was found on his person. Officials expressed the opinion that the young man must have taken a running leap to land as far from the building as he did. No one was in the waiting room at the time, so far as could be learned.

Boone was in an automobile accident Monday when he and all three of his companions were injured. He received lacerations and bruises about the head and neck.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Wright Boone, of Chapel Hill, N. C. His body has been sent to Chapel Hill for burial.

MILITARY CAMPS CLOSE THIS WEEK

Parents' Day to Be Observed at Fort Hoyle; Men Set for Gun Practice.

ROAD MARCH SCHEDULED

Citizens' military training camps will come to a close this week, with target practice or track meets on schedule at most of the posts.

Troops from Fort Myer, after the review yesterday morning by Secretary of State Stimson, went to the rifle range at Camp Sims, Md., for three days on the ranges with rifles, pistols and machine guns.

At Fort Hoyle, Md., the embryo soldiers of the Field Artillery arm will go out to shoot with the French 75s. All members of the gun crews and directing staffs are C. M. T. C. members. The second-year men compose the gun squads, the third-year men act as noncommissioned officers and the fourth-year men serve as officers and direct the firing. Those of the fourth year who complete the course are eligible for commissions as second lieutenants in the reserves.

At Fort Hoyle tomorrow will be parents' day, and many proud mothers and fathers are expected to visit the camp, which is 21 miles north of Baltimore on the Philadelphia road. After parents' day the young troops will spend two days road marching, which practically completes the training period for this group.

Impressive statistics on the amount of foods continues to drift in from the camps. At Fort Eustis the 1,900 men consume 150 watermelons, 100 gallons of ice cream and 350 pies without the slightest trouble. It takes 400 quarts of berries and 250 gallons of milk, without mentioning the coffee, to set up the young men for a hard day.

Good-Will Group Back From Abroad

Virginia Business Delegation Returned Visit Made by British.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., July 23.—James Gordon Bohannan, of Petersburg, president of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, and 12 members of that organization returned yesterday from an extended visit to England. The visit was made at the invitation of the industrial and business men of England and was for the purpose of cementing the friendship that exists between England and the United States and especially between England and Virginia.

The visit was made in return for one made to this State of a similar delegation of British business men three years ago. The delegation sailed for England May 21 and arrived there May 29.

The first ten days of the visit were spent in London, where the party was entertained by many of the dignitaries of the British government, and where it met prominent English business men and manufacturers and discussed business conditions of the two countries.

Sonny Mine to Resume Coal Production Soon

Special to The Washington Post.

Lonaconing, Md., July 23.—The Sonny mine, one of the largest in this section, is preparing to resume operations with the American Coal Mining Co. of Pittsburgh in charge. It will require several days to get the mine in shape for resumption, following suspension some days ago.

The mine had been operated by the Althouse interests of Philadelphia, under lease, and will now be taken back by the American Coal Mining Co., with John J. Faherty as manager. When in full operation the mine employs about 250 men. This number will not be employed at the resumption, but the management expects to have it working at full capacity as the season advances.

Farmer Killed in Well.

Hagerstown, Md., July 23 (Special). George O. Crider, 45, farmer living near Chambersburg, Pa., was killed yesterday when a rock from a well fell upon his head while he was descending a ladder. His skull was fractured. A neighbor found the body at the bottom of the well when Crider did not appear after some time.

CULPEPER SUFFERS FROM LONG DROUGHT

Farmers and Fishermen Are Hit Alike by Failure of Water Supply.

FOREST FIRES RAGING

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., July 23.—Fishermen and farmers alike are hard hit by the long drought which has gripped this area practically all this year. Crops are withering in the fields, and unless there is a wet spell within the next few days corn crops in Culpeper, Madison and Rappahannock Counties will be a complete failure.

Fishermen report that practically all of the smaller streams have stopped running, and the larger ones are lower than they have been seen in years. Thornton River, in Rappahannock County, has dwindled to a mere trickle, as have other streams, which can usually be counted on for a year-round water supply in that county.

Hay Sales Grow.

Official figures given out by R. E. Miller, Government weather recorder for Culpeper, show that there has been only 3.34 inches of rain during the last 60 days, as compared with 6.33 inches during the same period of 1929. This, combined with the high temperature (104 degrees maximum), has so dried the grass that there is little or no hay available, and feed dealers report that they are selling feed in about the same quantity that they usually do in the dead of winter. Ordinarily there is an excess of hay raised in this section and much is shipped away.

Forest fires are spreading through the mountain sections, and even in the lowlands near Culpeper hundreds of acres have been burnt over. People from Criglersville state that there is fire on the west slope of the Blue Ridge, which, if not stopped, may get out of control and cross the mountain above the President's camp on the Rapidan River and do serious damage in that section.

Believes Water Available.

Although Mountain Run, which is the source of Culpeper's water supply, is low, Town Manager S. L. von Gemmingen said this morning that he anticipates no shortage of water in the town proper, as he is pumping only about one-third of the available supply and is furnishing large quantities of water to the Southern Railroad.

All along this division of the railroad the water supply has run so low that all trains are taking on water at Culpeper, although railroad authorities informed the town manager this morning that they hoped to establish an emergency water supply at Remington, Va., some time today so as to take the load off the Culpeper water system in case the drought continues.

Maryland to Get New Railway Link

Contract for Construction Signed by Firm in Cumberland.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 23.—The Vang Construction Co., of this city, has signed a contract with the Pittsburgh & West Virginia Railroad for the building of the final link in the Cochran Mill to Connellsville line. It is for a distance of 5 miles from the present terminus of the road near Scottsdale, Pa., to a junction with the Western Maryland line in Connellsville.

A bridge 60 feet high will be erected across the Youghiogheny River, which will cost $1,500,000, it was said. Work will begin within a few days and between 500 and 600 men are to be employed the next three months.

The Vang company is completing the other links of the extension, after over a year's work.

Three Die, Fourth Hurt As Truck Leaves Road

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., July 23.—Three Negro men met death and a fourth was badly injured when a truck, heavily loaded with farm machinery, ran off the highway about 5 miles north of Jarratt, Sussex County, this morning. The dead are Waverly Kelly, driver; a man named Banks, and a man named Harris. Kelly and Banks were killed instantly, while Harris died soon after being taken to Emporia. The fourth man on the truck, Jessie Reeves, was seriously injured, but hopes are entertained for his recovery.

All the men on the truck resided in Emporia, and all were taken there shortly after the accident. The wrecked truck belonged to W. T. Tiller & Co., of Emporia, and was en route to Richmond. It overturned after leaving the road.

CITY AIDS TO HONOR SWEENEY AT BURIAL

Alexandria's Public Offices to Close for Rites of Municipal Auditor.

MISS LOULA SMOOT DIES

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 823.

All city offices will be closed today in respect to the memory of Capt. William H. Sweeney, whose funeral will be held at 9:30 o'clock this morning from St. Mary's Catholic Church. Flags on the city hall are at halfstaff, as the deceased was city auditor at the time of his death, although his ill health had caused the appointment of an acting city auditor over a year ago. Capt. Sweeney was also for many years the superintendent of public schools in this city, and one of the most widely known and respected citizens.

Members of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Church held a service at the home last night, and Alexandria Lodge, No. 758, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, will attend the services in a body and conduct the rites of the order at the grave.

Mrs. Hattie Shiflett, of Harrisonburg, Va., reported to the police that while waiting for a train at Union Station, Alexandria, on Tuesday night she fell asleep and was robbed of her pocketbook containing $19 and a package containing three dresses she had just purchased, valued at $8. No trace of the thief has been found.

Miss Loula Smoot, daughter of the late Susan Ann and Charles Calvert Smoot, died yesterday afternoon at her home, 301 South St. Asaph street. The funeral will be held at 5 o'clock this evening from the home. She is survived by two sisters, Miss Cora Smoot and Mrs. Alfred Thomson.

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Schneider, wife of Frederick Schneider, who died on Monday, will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon from her home, 55 Queen street, conducted by the Rev. Dr. E. V. Regester, presiding elder of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

An automobile driven by Frederick Taylor, 711 Prince street, was struck and damaged shortly after midnight Tuesday night while coming south on North Washington street extended, by a car driven by Ernest Steele. Steele's car was then in collision with a bus of the Alexandria, Barcroft & Washington Rapid Transit Co., driven by Earl Dove. Steele was arrested and will be given a hearing in police court this morning, with three charges against him, including colliding.

Bruce T. Stambaugh, through his attorney, James Reece Duncan, has entered suit in the corporation court against E. J. Nevitt, of Accotink, Va., to recover damages in the sum of $10,000 for alleged injuries sustained by being hit by an automobile of Nevitt's on July 9 last, at the intersection of Prince and Henry streets.

Marshall Harris, Negro, charged with assaulting Charles Gant, Negro, on July 13 last, was given a month in jail and fined $50 and costs in police court yesterday. The delay in hearing the case was to allow Gant to appear against Harris, as Gant at the time fearing bodily harm jumped from a second story window and broke a leg.

Man Is Indicted In Trip With Girl

Two Others Named as Abettors in Case of Virginia Debutante.

Richmond, Va., July 23 (A.P.).—True bills were returned today by a Henrico County grand jury against Harry Dickenson, charged with the abduction of Miss Mary Frances McClenny, pretty 20-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. C. McClenny, Richmond, and N. H. Dickenson and John Leadbetter, charged with aiding in the alleged abduction. They will be tried in Henrico County October 6.

Warrants against the men were sworn out by the girl's father following her disappearance from home July 1. Miss McClenny was found in Waynesboro, Va., on July 12 in company with Harry Dickenson after a Nation-wide search.

The parents of the girl had feared that she had been forcibly taken from her home, but Miss McClenny wrote a note in which he said that she left Richmond on July 1 "of my own free will and without force on the part of anyone and without any inducements whatsoever." She wrote further that "my entire association with Harry L. Dickenson has occurred with full knowledge on my part of the fact that he was married and had not been divorced from his wife."

RITCHIE WILL OPEN BOULEVARD TODAY

Governor to Lead in Parade of Autos Over Southern Maryland Highway.

FETE TO FOLLOW TALKS

Formal opening of the Southern Maryland boulevard will start at 10:30 o'clock this morning, when parade units organize at the upper end of the boulevard near Hills Bridge under direction of Capt. Harry C. Butler, chief of the Maryland State Police, as marshal. The new road lops many miles off the distance to Chesapeake Beach, Solomons Island and other bay points.

The parade will be headed by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland and his party, followed by Mayor William F. Broening, of Baltimore, and his party. Charles J. Stockman will represent the Washington Chamber of Commerce.

Promptly at 11 o'clock the procession is scheduled to start and it is expected that almost 1,000 automobiles will be in the line, in addition to numerous floats depicting historic incidents affecting the growth and development of Anne Arundel and Calvert Counties.

Ritchie to Start Parade.

A silken barrier will be broken at 11 o'clock at Bristol by Gov. Ritchie, who then will lead the parade over the boulevard to Sunderland and thence by the old State road to Mount Harmony and on to Chesapeake Beach. After traversing the principal streets of North Beach, the celebrants will continue to Seaside Park, where the automobiles will be parked in an area designated for that purpose.

A buffet luncheon will be served in the Casino at 1 o'clock, when informal addresses will be made by Gov. Ritchie and Mayor Broening. The speeches will be amplified through the park's broadcasting system so that they may be heard by all present. The ceremonies also will be broadcast through Radio Station WJSV at Mount Vernon Hills, Va.

Recreation Follows Speeches.

The formal part of the program will terminate with the speeches, and the remainder of the afternoon will be devoted to pleasure and entertainment, among the features of which will be a bathing beauty contest, the winner of which will be awarded a cash prize and become eligible for selection as "Miss Seaside."

A Southern Maryland ball will be held at Seaside Park in the evening, interrupted by an elaborate display of fireworks at 10 o'clock. Various competitive numbers will be held during the dance.

Indian Life to Be Shown.

Among the floats will be one representing the marriage of Anne Arundel, daughter of a distinguished British family, and Cecil Calvert, the second Lord Baltimore, in 1628. Two of the counties traversed by the new boulevard were named in honor of this couple.

Another float will be an exhibit of life in a Susquehannock Indian settlement in Calvert County prior to the advent of the white man, while a third float will portray Chief Justice Roger Brooke Taney enthroned between Justice and Liberty. Justice Taney was a native of Calvert County and practiced law for several years in Frederick County before being made Chief Justice.

A fourth float will reproduce parts of the romance between Margaret Mackall Smith, daughter of Capt. Walter and Anne Mackall Smith, of Calvert County, and Zachary Taylor; while another will display a representation of Thomas Johnson, first Governor of Maryland, who was born in Calvert County.

Truck Driver Dies In Mystery Crash

Man Found Near Machine With Skull Crushed; Operated Hotel.

Special to The Washington Post.

Bedford, Va., July 23.—Eugene E. Putnam was killed a few miles northwest of Bedford, on the Peaks road, this morning. He was driving alone in a small truck en route to Bedford and when found the back of his skull was crushed and he was lying about 20 feet from the truck. The truck was upright and it is not known whether it turned completely over or a wheel gave away and Mr. Putnam was thrown out.

Mr. Putnam's son-in-law, Mr. Moore, was in a car a short distance behind, but did not see the accident. He came up a few minutes afterward, however, and brought the injured man into town. They were met on the road by Dr. M. P. Rucker, but Mr. Putnam was dead when the physician made the examination.

Mr. Putnam had been operating Hotel Mons at the foot of the Peaks of Otter for two years and prior to that time had spent several summers in camp at the foot of the Peaks. He was a pianist of note and had taught in some of the leading universities of the country. Alabama is said to be his native State. He is survived by his widow and daughter.
